Testimony Concerning Teapot Dome Scandal
Refused by Him

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press)—Albert B. Fall, declined Saturday to testify further before the senate oil committee which seeks more light on the unpaid loans aggregating $125,000 made to him by E. L. Doheny and Harry F. Sinclair, whose oil companies obtained leases of naval oil reserves from him while he was secretary of the interior.

Haled to the capitol over the protests of his physicians and counsel, Fall, in a prepared statement, challenged the authority of the committee to investigate and refused to answer questions on the further ground that his responses might tend to incriminate him in court proceedings authorized by congress in the Walsh annulment resolution.

Want of authority by the committee to proceed further with the inquiry was based upon two grounds—that the original resolutions of the senate provided for the holding of hearings only until the convening of this congress and that congress in adopting the Walsh resolution had taken the matter out of the hands of the committee and placed it in the courts.

Ordered to appear. Voting to obtain a new grant of authority from the senate next Monday, the committee ordered Fall to appear next Tuesday. Should he persist in his refusal to testify at that time senators said the issue of contempt would be clearly drawn. Under the law and precedents he could be held in contempt and the fact certified to the president of the senate who would submit the matter to the district attorney of the District of Columbia whose duty it would be to bring the matter before the grand jury for their action.

Upon indictment and conviction Fall would be liable to imprisonment in a "common jail" for not less than one month nor more than 12 months and a fine of not less than $100 and not more than $1,000.

Still another course would be open, that of impeachment by the house and trial by the senate on basis of his official acts. In the case of W. W. Belknap, secretary of war in the Grant administration, both the house and senate held that impeachment proceedings would be even after a cabinet officer had resigned from office. Impeachment proceedings were not pressed in the Belknap case, however.

HEARING ROOM PACKED. Coming by automobile from the home of H. J. W. Zevely, personal attorney of Harry F. Sinclair, who he has been confined to his bed since his arrival here from New Orleans ten days ago, Fall reached the committee room promptly at 10 a. m. the hour named in the subpoenae issued for him Friday after the committee's medical committee had reported he was able to appear for examination.

The committee was late in assembling but not so the spectators. The big hearing room was packed and as the former secretary appeared in an ante-room there was a general craning of necks to get a view of the man who has become the central figure in the most sensational congressional investigation certainly in recent years. Fall was made comfortable in a chair after he had removed his hat and coat.

The wait was brief. Lead by Chairman Lenroot the ten members of the committee made their way thru the crowds to their seats around the big mahogany table. Fall followed, accompanied by his counsel, Levi Cooke, his physician, Dr. John Wharton and a friend. The crowd, in which were numbered many senators and representatives, gave way slowly in the

Plans Made for Injunctions Against Petroleum Companies

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press)—While the senate oil inquiry was brought to a temporary standstill Saturday by the refusal of former Secretary Fall to testify, President Coolidge selected Atlee Pomerene, former Democratic senator from Ohio, in place of Thomas W. Gregory, to serve as general counsel with Silas H. Strawn in prosecuting the oil lease cases.

At the same time the groundwork was being laid in the department of justice for the institution of injunction suits to prevent further extraction of oil from California reserve number 1 by the Pan American Petroleum and Transport Co. and from the Teapot Dome reserve in Wyoming by the Mammoth Oil Co. Whether these suits will be brought here or in the state where the reserves are located has not been decided.

The senate was in recess Saturday, but the oil middle again got into the house debate as a result of unsuccessful efforts of Representative Fish, Republican, New York, to get action on his resolution that a request be made of Harry F. Sinclair, thru official channels, to return to this country from Europe. Demand for an investigation of the personal income tax returns of Sinclair was made by Representative Jeffers, Democrat, Alabama, who told the house he was convinced a thorough check of records would "uncover irregularities, graft, crookedness and corruption."

BROKERS SUMMONED. Although the senate committee examined no witnesses, a number were on hand ready to take the stand. Among them was James Sloane, Jr., a white house attaché in the early days of the Harding administration, who subsequently became identified with the Washington brokerage firm of Ungerleider and Co. Samuel Ungerleider also has been subpoenaed along with the representatives of other Washington brokerage firms.

Sloane and Ungerleider will be called in connection with the phase of the committee's inquiry as to whether any governmental officials had transactions in the stock of the Mammoth Oil Co., which was organized by the Sinclair interests to take over the Teapot Dome lease. As part of this part of the investigation made Saturday with the assignment of three accountants of the federal trade commission to go thru the books of W. B. Hibbs and Co., a Washington banking and brokerage concern. The accountants are searching for transactions in certain oil stocks involving a list of names in the possession of the senate oil committee. The list is withheld. A similar examination of

WORK COMMENDED

Conditions Here are Good,
Report Filed by Dr. H. H.
Mitchell Shows

Recommendation that the position of city health commissioner be made a full time job was made Saturday by Dr. H. H. Mitchell, representative of the American Child Health association, upon the completion here of his child health survey.

Development of city health problems in a city the size of Lima requires full attention of a health commissioner and according to Dr. Mitchell, the burden should not rest on the shoulders of a part time official who must earn his living in the practice of medicine.

Direction of a health department is gradually being recognized by the public and its importance is vital for the life of a community, Dr. Mitchell said, in speaking of Lima health department which established a creditable record for the year despite the fact that Dr. J. B. Poling is only a part time official.

NURSE COMMENDED. In his survey report Dr. Mitchell commended Miss Ortha I. Nichols, the school nurse for her activities in promotion of health activities thru teachers and efforts for correction of defects which handicap the health of children.

Need of additional school nurses to assist Miss Nichols and the help of a physician to make physical examinations in schools would further elevate the health standard among children, Dr. Mitchell said in his report.

One of the greatest factors in health development of school children is the nutrition and health education work started a few years ago thru the cooperation of the Allen-co Child Welfare association, which cooperation Dr. Mitchell says is making possible the development of child health work.

DETAILED SURVEY. Survey in Lima centered on investigation of the water supply, milk supply, hours of sleep children obtained, amount of exercise they received, medical and dental attention children received and check up of doctors' cooperation with the health department in reporting births and maintaining accurate birth records.

Speaking of the recreational and play aspects of health problems, Dr. Mitchell commended the work of the Child Welfare association as well as the city authorities who have made possible the playgrounds with apparatus and trained leaders. He urged an increase of playground facilities and more trained leaders as supervised play is a vital asset both to the health and character development of Lima's youth.

The forward looking spirit that has employed a full time executive for promoting Boy Scout organizations should add further assistance in this movement," Dr. Mitchell said.

COMMUNITY CHEST. Organization of a Community Chest and a Council of Social Agencies tends for closer cooperation among workers and betterment of health and social conditions in the community, according to Dr. Mitchell, who pointed out that such organizations in other cities have accomplished good work in child welfare. Successful carrying out of both plans in Lima was suggested by the American health department representative.

In thanking various organizations for the assistance given in his survey of the city, Dr. Mitchell remarked on the cooperation of physicians with the health department in keeping accurate child birth records.

"Thru inquiry in schools we learned of approximately 500 births," Dr. Mitchell said. "We checked up the records and not one discrepancy could be found. This is especially satisfying as birth registration is one of the fundamentals of health promotion."

Conditions in Lima are on an average

Victims Are Pinned Beneath The Burning Cars

FORTVILLE, Ind.—(Associated Press)—The death toll of the wreck of two Indiana Union Traction Co. trains, which collided head-on near here late Saturday, will probably reach seventeen, rescue workers said Saturday night.

Nine badly charred bodies have been removed from the two cars that were destroyed by fire and seven other bodies are believed to be in the wreckage. One man injured in the wreck died later in an Anderson, Ind. hospital.

Forty injured have been removed to hospitals at Anderson and Indianapolis.

The cars were of wooden construction and all that remained of them was a mass of smoking embers and red hot brake rods and trucks.

Each train consisted of a motor car and trailer. The motor cars were telescoped and most the dead and injured were in these cars.

Passengers in the trailers escaped with minor injuries.

The first body identified was that of Dr. E. Blain Haskin, of Indianapolis, inspector in charge of the United States department of agriculture and bureau of animal industry in Indiana.

MOTORMEN ESCAPE

John Hutchins, of Indianapolis, who was taken from the wreck badly injured, died Saturday night in a hospital at Anderson. The motor men on both trains escaped with slight injuries as they jumped before the collision.

News of the tragedy near Montezuma Thursday, when three persons lost their lives, was broadcasted by an unidentified radio station near Lima and was picked up by Mrs. George O'Brien, in Chicago, information received by Mrs. Florence Parrott, 133 S. West st., Saturday revealed.

The message told of the accident and was received loud and clear at 5:30 p. m., Mrs. O'Brien, a former Lima resident, said.

Robbery Declared Motive for Slaying at Cincinnati

CINCINNATI — (Associated Press)—The motive for the killing of John A. Mazzola, Central American student, at the Ohio Dental College here, was robbery and not because of a woman, detectives working on the case said Saturday.

They declare that Halton P. Siddall, the fellow-student who is charged with the crime, sold the diamond from Mazzola's ring in a pawnshop shortly after the body of the slain man was found early Wednesday in the shallow waters of Duck creek.

Siddall, the police say, was positively identified as the man who sold the stone, by the proprietor and the clerk of the pawnshop. Both men were in the pawnshop when Siddall, they allege, entered.

According to the pawnshop owner, the man who sold the diamond insisted on keeping the ring itself and accepted $150 for the stone.

Siddall, the police say, denied that he knew anything about the diamond.

NEW YORK—(Associated Press)—Inability to maintain her 17-year-old son, J. Arthur Hinckley, on a $15,000 a year income, in a station of life in which he is entitled to move by virtue of the social position he now occupies, led his mother, Mrs. Mary Beach Hinckley, to petition Supreme Court Justice Gay to increase the young man's income to $20,000. The court granted the request.

J. Arthur Hinckley, the father, who died in 1910, was a well known yachtsman. The trust estate set up for his son amounted on January 1, to $2,450,000.

ULTIMATUM GOES

Streets, Says Bingham

TWO COMPANIES NOTIFIED

Promise To Take Out Permits
Saturday Not Kept

Ultimatum to taxicab operators to secure city licenses or cease operations on Monday was delivered Saturday afternoon by City Manager C. A. Bingham in connection with the war being started against all license delinquents.

"Run taxicabs off the streets if licenses are not exhibited and drivers fail to produce chauffeurs' badges," Bingham told Police Chief T. A. Lanker in conference at the city hall.

Manager Bingham called the office of the Yellow Cab and Red Top Taxi companies and delivered his ultimatum. He was advised that licenses would be taken out Saturday afternoon by the two companies for all machines and drivers, he stated.

FAIL TO GET THEM. Late Saturday afternoon neither company had procured license at city hall, it was reported from City Manager Bingham's office.

The Checker Taxi Co. has taken out licenses for cars and also has procured chauffeur badges for drivers, Manager Bingham stated in announcing that the transportation law is applicable to all who operate taxis or motor cars for hire.

Every person or firm operating taxicabs or automobiles for hire is required to procure a license. The fee is $50 for the first cab or auto and $5 for each additional cab or auto.

Previous to issuance of license, proof of a $10,000 liability or insurance bond must be filed with the auditor. Such insurance is to protect the public from personal or property injury and is for the entire business or firm and not on each vehicle. Licenses must be in view on outside of cabs.

DRIVERS' FEE $3. Every driver operating motor buses or automobiles for commercial gain must take out a $500 insurance policy to protect the public, according to the license law which fixes the annual fee for drivers at $3.

Considerable trouble has been experienced with taxi drivers in regard to speed limits. Police Chief Lanker stated in connection with his statement that orders of the city manager would be carried out Monday morning.

The crusade also extends to other license shirkers who have been granted a month in which to abide by the municipal code, and also against violators of the state automobile code.

War President Barely
Breath Draws Near

FULLY RESIGNED

Death Expected Any Hour
As Doctors and Wife
Watch at Bedside

(BULLETIN)
WASHINGTON — (Associated Press)—At 9 a. m. there was nothing to indicate any change in the condition of former President Wilson.

WASHINGTON — (Associated Press)—Softly but with increasing swiftness the falling tide of Woodrow Wilson's life flowed outward Saturday night toward the great deep.

Steadily thru the day and on into the inscrutable hours of darkness it kept its inexorable way, beyond the power of human will or human ingenuity to stay it. Saturday night the war president lay barely conscious, free of pain and fully resigned in spirit, as if he were preparing to fall into a natural sleep in the presence of the great unknown.

His stout heart, which had performed Ms labored duties with a strength that astonished his physicians, began at last to falter and grow faint. There were grave fears that the end was almost at hand. Thruout the life and death the regular and most normal beating of his heart has given those about him a glimmering of hope that somehow he might come thru his supreme battle victorious.

PULSE DECLINING. But even that feeble hope flickered and all but went out when an evening consultation of his doctors revealed a declining pulse—a sign that his heart had begun to feel desperately the gradual weakening of his delicate vitality.

The condition of former president Wilson was said by Dr. Grayson to show "no change" when he came out of the home soon after 10 o'clock Saturday night.

"He may last the night thru," Dr. Grayson added, "and then again I may change that statement in half an hour."

The patient was sleeping, he said, but still had taken no nourishment.

At 11 p. m. there was no evidence of a material change in the condition of former President Wilson.

At midnight former President Wilson's condition had shown no evidence of material change.

The home was dark except for a faint light in the sick room.

How he struggled thru the early hours between Friday midnight and Saturday dawn—the hours when life reaches its low ebb was a marvel to his physicians. They feared that his soul would float out on the great white tide before Saturday's daylight.

But sleeping lightly, breathing and almost normally, Mr. Wilson weathered the dangerous hours and the light of a new bright February day streaming in thru the windows of his bed chamber found the stricken president still fighting.

NOURISHMENT REFUSED. When he awoke from a fitful slumber an attempt was made to have him take some light liquid nourishment. The dying man moved his head in a signal of disapproval and when pressed, breathed an almost inaudible "no."

Likewise he rejected an attempt to have him take a few sips of water. Faintly he indicated he wanted an old negro servant to rearrange his pillows and to be eased about in his bed.

Apparently more comfortable, he indicated he wanted his wife, Mrs. Wilson, coming to the bedside, took the sufferer's hand in hers and held it silently until he drifted off into another snatch of sleep.

When Mr. Wilson roused again he thought of another friend and breathed faintly "Where's Grayson?" The friend and physician who was now conducting the last and losing round of a battle with death, which actually began before Woodrow Wilson's first term in the white house was ended, came to the bedside.

Apparently the sick man thought on waking was to satisfy himself that he had near him the only three persons whose presence he wants to feel in his last moment.

Except for the broken, fast passing figure on the bed, the room

LARGE SUMS ARE COLLECTED

Nearly $20,000 Back Taxes Have Been Paid To Auditor

Representatives from every grange in Allen county will be present at the open meeting to be held by county commissioners Feb. 11, to discuss property revaluation. T. W. Duff, secretary of Pomona grange, announced following the regular meeting Saturday at Memorial hall.

Reappraisal of farm property was discussed by the grange at its afternoon session and resolutions were adopted each subordinate grange to take action on the matter and have representatives at the meeting.

While some farmers throughout the county are in favor of the proposed revision of farm values on the tax duplicate it is said that many more are against the move and will oppose a revaluation at the open hearing.

WORK PROFITABLE

Reappraisal of Lima real estate is proving profitable for Allen county Auditor Phillips, declared Saturday.

Cost of the work amounting to more than $30,000, he said is going to be more than offset by back taxes that are rolling into the treasury thru the house to house canvases made by field men.

"We have just commenced to get down to business," Phillips said, "and the amount of back taxes discovered to be owing is surprisingly large. I estimate that between $15,000 and $20,000 has been paid in already."

"Some property owners are coming in of their own accord. Others are being sent in by field men. One man who was in Friday, paid $100 back taxes. Another property owner, a big politician, recently paid over $2,000."

CITY AIDED

Influx of back taxes, which may eventually run as high as $50,000, it is estimated, will afford some slight financial relief to the city during the first half of the year, said Phillips.

The county's portion of the money will also aid materially to various county funds.

The house to house canvases made by field men is so thorough, Auditor Phillips said, that no one can escape being forced to pay every penny owing the county.

Discovery of date of undisturbed property by field men, would previously have been reported, he said.

The county can only collect taxes due for five years back.

Lost When Schooner Sinks—Another Vessel Missing

ST. JOHN, N. F.—(Associated Press)—Hope for the rescue of eight men missing after the sinking of the schooner Maid of Scotland, off Portland, was dashed Saturday. The Maid of Scotland went down in a collision with the ferryboat, the Perseus, which was carrying four men and a dog.

Four of the Perseus men put out in a small boat to search for survivors but did not return to their vessel and it was believed their boat was sucked down as the Maid of Scotland sank, drowning them.

VESSEL MISSING

ST. JOHN, N. F.—Wreckage found in a lonely cove near Cape Race was believed Saturday night to indicate the loss of all on board of the three masted schooner President Coaker, owned by the Fishermen's Union Trading Co. of Port Union. The vessel was last reported as sailing from a port in Brazil for New Foundland, 54 days ago.

It is believed the vessel was driven ashore in a recent gale. A steamer has been sent out from St. John's to search for possible survivors.

Pilot Flies Here At Rate of 135 Miles Per Hour

Flying at the rate of more than 135 miles an hour, Lieut. Paul H. Kemmer, U. S. aviation service, negotiated the 260 mile trip from Chanute field, Kan., to Lima in one hour and 50 minutes time in the air.

Lieut. Kemmer and Sgt. Mechanician Quinn, jumped off for Lima at 2 p. m., and made a landing west of the city at 3:50 p. m.

The flight is the second made here by the aviator in the last few months. He made the trip to spend Sunday with his father, C. G. Kemmer, and sister Miss Lela Kemmer, of 775 W. North-st. He will return to Chanute, jumping off Sunday noon.

RASCALITY IS LAID TO REPUBLICANS

Senator Raps Party In Speech At Cleveland

CLEVELAND, (Associated Press)—The Teapot dome scandal is so big that we can hardly discuss it in words—and it is difficult to forth what further inquiry will divulge," Senator C. C. Dill, of Washington, a member of the senatorial committee probing oil leases, declared at the closing session of the Woman's School of Democracy Saturday.

"We have been trying to uncover all the rascality we can," Senator Dill said in reference to the committee's work. "And thus far all of the rascality and criminality uncovered has been perpetrated by Republicans."

"If any Democrats are found to be concerned, however, I shall be the first to demand their prosecution. We must reach these oil lands and send the guilty men to the penitentiary."

Referring to testimony before the committee that William G. McAdoo has been in the employ of oil concerns, Dill declared "that there is a vast difference between accepting a case as a lawyer and selling your nation's resources while serving as a public official."

Attacking the Republican party director Dill characterized the last three years "as a period of special privilege never equalled." The same period, he said, was marked by a number of "scandals." Any one of which was "big enough to discredit the administration."

1 HURT, 4 HELD IN SHOOTING

Quarrel Ends In Injuries, Others Sought By Police

One man is in city hospital and four are in city jail as the result of a shooting affair early Sunday at 122 E. Lafayette-st.

The victim of the shooting is Fremont Johnson, 25, colored, shot in the leg. His condition is not serious.

Those under arrest are: John Walker, 38, 121 Irwin-st; Tee Sparks, 21, 201 E. Wayne-st; Ed Moore, 41, 201 E. Wayne-st; A. Maunday, 28, 201 E. Wayne-st.

All three were being held on open charges pending investigation of an affair. Police took a revolver holder from Walker who asserted he was robbed of his gun and then beaten.

Arrests were made by Sergeant McCoy and Patrolmen James and Mills.

praise with those of other cities included in the cross-country survey. Dr. Mitchell said Friday night before he left for Springfield where he is to carry on his work.

"I was particularly impressed with the cautious treatment extended by City Manager C. A. Ringham, J. E. Collins, superintendent of schools, health officials and executives of other agencies with whom I worked during my time in Lima," Dr. Mitchell reported.

The health survey started Monday under direction of Dr. Mitchell and Dr. P. W. Walker. On Wednesday Dr. Walker was recalled and Dr. Mitchell completed the work.

BENJAMIN REIDER, 65, DIES IN STATE HOSPITAL

Benjamin Reider, 65, former Lima resident, died Friday at the Toledo State hospital, where for some time he had been "in treatment."

He was born in Bitch-co, Pa., Feb. 8, 1860. He is survived by the widow, who resides in a Republic, Ohio, and by a brother, Edward, Allentown, Pa.

The body was brought to Lima and removed to the St. Peter's mortuary. Funeral services will be held there Monday at 2 p. m. Rev. D. N. Kelly, pastor of Grace Methodist church, will officiate. Interment will be in Woodlawn.

Comparison today of an X ray photograph of Venizelos' heart, just taken with one made at Saloniki in 1917 is said to have proved that there has been no deterioration and there is no cause for anxiety over his condition.

WILSON'S HEART IS WEAKENING

hardly looked like a chamber of death. Cheerful chintzes drape the windows which look to the south, toward the Potomac, and an indigo ridge of Virginia hills where he used to play. On the walls are some family pictures, that of the first Mrs. Wilson one of them. Photographs of his grandchildren look down on him. In a corner stands a desk, a personal one, devoted wholly to personal affairs. Upon it personal papers and books arranged with the orderly precision which marked his nature. Everything lies just as he left it last when Dr. Grayson ordered him to bed.

ALWAYS ON WATCH

Some one was always on watch in the sick chamber. Either Mrs. Wilson or Dr. Grayson was there. Two white capped nurses, the same who attended the former president during the critical days of his illness in the white house, moved noiselessly about with the professional air of efficiency performing their ministrations.

Downstairs a few close relatives waited and went about with nervous and subdued tones. Telegrams and letters poured in by the hundred and were listed and acknowledged by volunteer secretaries from among the family or friends. Calling cards by the dozens, many bearing names of national note, were left at the door by those who left autos at the bottom of the hill and walked up what they sorrowfully knew was a last mark of respect. None but Dr. Grayson and Mrs. Wilson had the freedom of the sick room, other members of family tiptoed there occasionally. Bernard M. Baruch, Mr. Wilson's closest friend and confidant of all those who were associated with him during the days of the war and the fight over the peace treaty, could have been admitted to Mr. Wilson's chamber had he wished, but he preferred to remember the former president as he had last seen him. Instead he remained downstairs doing what he could to lighten the work of the others, preferring not to tax in the slightest the fast fading strength of the sick man upstairs.

CHERISHED MEMORIES

None of the few within could look about the house of death without the reminder of a cherished memory of the man who was passing so quietly and yet so steadily. There was the bag of golf sticks standing in the corner of the hall; it had rested there since Mr. Wilson moved in. There were the bookshelves crowded with volumes which followed him to Washington from Princeton. On the hall closet was the cane "the doctor let" Mr. Wilson humorously referred to it, which he used to help himself about since paralysis made his left side helpless. In the family dining room, at his place at the table stood the empty chair, on which he used to steady himself while he murmured grace before sitting down to meals—even in other days when he was so ill that his voice was hardly audible.

The bed chamber close beside him on a little table lay a well worn volume—the bible—from which he never failed to read a passage before going to bed. Each night since he began this last battle with death Woodrow Wilson probably has said his last prayers as he always did, altho no human ear heard him.

Mr. Wilson grew weaker and weaker. He was unable to get out of the bed and not of the spirit, for even when he found himself unable to articulate there were signals of recognition of his eyes for those he wanted to see.

Never once has Mr. Wilson given indication of a thought about public men of affairs. Never at any time has he given evidence of any pain. He has been given no opiates and while he has been given stimulants no heroic measures such as applications of oxygen have been resorted to.

BRITISH TRIBUTE

LONDON—(Associated Press)—Woodrow Wilson's great fight for life and his amazing vitality and fortitude continue to be featured in the English papers, which publish sympathetic appraisals of his life, ideals and achievements.

The Sunday Observer, like other papers, touches upon what it characterizes as some of his political mistakes, but says his ideals remain, declaring:

"Time is proving him right in his ideals, even when it unfolds the sequel of their abandonment under the compromise he accepted."

"Woodrow Wilson's work did not end at Persia. There are ends to carry it on; there is a driving propulsion behind. His own pioneer plan. In it suggests criticism. Others share with him the credit of his ideas, but no man in his position of power ever applied his strength to a more finely conceived purpose."

"History will honor as the man who gave the world a new conception of its changed self and a new course in its international affairs."

The Sunday Express says:

"Woodrow Wilson is the greatest American since Lincoln. He is a failure like Moses because he was not allowed to lead Europe into the Promised land. But in a hundred years historians will rate his failure as a peacemaker higher than the success of any other figure of the great war."

"Mr. Wilson on his death bed dwells his betrayers on both sides of the Atlantic. He is more than a politician; he is a seer. His blessing of peace will be the homage of history. He failed as Jesus failed. The failure of Jesus in Palestine gave the world Christianity; the failure of Wilson at Versailles will give the world the peace of brotherhood."

"He was crucified by politicians, but when his body, like John Brown's, lies mouldering in the grave, his soul will go marching on."

MOTHER IS QUIZZED IN DEATH OF DAUGHTER

SALEM, N. J.—After a grilling by County Prosecutor Beckley today Mrs. Bessie Atkinson, mother of six year old Miriam Atkinson, whose body was found in an unused well under the kitchen floor of her home at Woodstown last Wednesday, continued her previous assertions and insisted that her husband, Robert, had placed the body there after the child had died from a fright when he scolded her, according to Beckley.

WHEATLEY DIVORCE CASE TO TAKE REGULAR TURN

Trial of a divorce action instituted by Harry W. Wheatley, Shawnee-tp, against Mrs. Anna A. Wheatley, English war bride, will be heard in its regular turn in common pleas court, after the six weeks, wait required by law has elapsed, counsel declared Saturday.

Wheatley is a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Wheatley, of Shawnee-tp. He met his wife under romantic circumstances while serving in the Royal Flying Corps in England during the World war. They have one child, Tommy. Wheatley is employed at the Lima Sheet Metal Co.

DEMOCRATS FIRM ON TAX PLAN

Will Make No Concessions On Maximum Favored

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(Associated Press)—Democratic leaders in the house confident they can muster enough votes to upset the surtax schedule carried in the Mellon bill, declared Saturday they would make no concessions on the 44 per cent maximum they favor. It was indicated, however, that they might modify the normal income tax rate proposed in their substitute.

Representative Garner of Texas, ranking Democrat on the committee, announced he had asked for a new set of treasury estimates. They would apply, it was indicated, to normal tax rates and possibly the proposed earned income exemption but not to surtaxes or the unmarried persons and heads of families.

A treasury estimate that the Garner plan would mean a loss of revenue to the government of $438,000,000 annually as $288,000,000 under the Mellon bill, is understood to believe that shift in the normal rate might be advisable to cut down the total. To what extent this might be done, however, was not disclosed.

Confidence of the democrats that a majority of the house will not line up in favor of the 25 per cent surtax maximum proposed by Mr. Mellon lay chiefly in the amount of Rep. Hearst, of Wisconsin, announced in the ways and means committee that he and other insurgents would not go wrong with the Republican organization on this point. Democratic leaders predicted that at least 30 Republicans would swing to their support when the showdown comes on a surtaxes, enough votes they pointed out, to insure adoption of their schedule.

Some Republicans, however, expressed the opinion that compromise on a figure below the democrats' maximum might be agreed upon to keep enough Republicans in line to insure rejection of the Garner rates.

OFFICERS NAMED

Gramm-Bernstein Truck Corp. Sees Business Boom

Final steps in the reorganization of the Gramm-Bernstein Truck Corp. were taken Saturday with the election of the board of directors and the officers of the company.

With the lifting of the business ship several weeks ago, the business of the company has been growing rapidly and the sound financial basis will assure the continuance of the industry in Lima, officials said.

Directors named are: Max Bernstein, B. A. Gramm, E. G. Kirby, P. B. Mitchell, G. L. V. Emerson, Dudley Bernstein and K. S. Goodin. Officers elected by the directors are Max Bernstein, president; B. A. Gramm, vice-president; E. G. Kirby, secretary, and Dudley Bernstein, treasurer.

All plant facilities and assets of the old company have been taken over by the new corporation as of Feb. 1 and production under the new schedule already has been started.

Carl J. Bigelow has been named factory manager and will be in charge of the manufacture of the new trucks. Kirby, who was in charge of the factory under the receivership and who is the new secretary, is also vice president of the Commerce-Guardian Savings Bank and Trust Co. of Toledo.

'GAS' JUMPS AGAIN

Price Advance For District Is Effective Monday

Gasoline, and its near relative, kerosene, which have enjoyed a steady advance in price in the last few months, will take another jump in the Lima district effective Monday, Standard Oil officials announce.

Gasoline will advance one and a half cents, and kerosene a half cent a gallon. New prices will be: gasoline, 20 cents at the tank wagon, service stations 22 cents; kerosene, 15 cents at the tank wagon, service stations 17 cents.

It is predicted that compelling companies will follow the advance. A slackening in crude oil production is given as the cause of the jump.

POLICE LOOKING FOR TWO PIQUA ROBBERS

Lima police Saturday night were looking for two men who held up and robbed a Piqua man of $200 and for another holdup who took $10 from a Lima resident here.

An oil truck driver was robbed at Piqua of $10. The robbers were driving a Ford coupe in which they escaped, later stealing an Essex car, it is believed, and speeding towards Lima.

"I don't know whether he had a gun or not," said L. H. Adams, 937 Laurel-av in reporting a holdup to police. "He got the money, anyway." Adams continued, describing the robber as tall, heavy-set and wearing a soft hat and dark overcoat.

FALL MAY FACE PRISON TERM

To outward appearances at least, Fall was not the broken man he has been pictured. He walked steadily, without assistance and without the use of a cane. His face was rather pale, following his long confinement in bed but there were few signs of nervousness.

CLIMAX EXPECTED

After Fall had seated himself in the witness chair across the table from his inquisitors, some of them his former colleagues in the senate, his counsel said that he desired to make a brief statement. He announced that Fall was "ready for the hearing" but reminded the committee that he still was under the advice of his own physician and urged that the senators remember what he is advised as to his physical condition.

"Mr. Fall, you will please be sworn," said Chairman Lenroot. The former secretary arose and held his right hand high as the customary oath was administered.

As he settled back in his chair, this question was put by Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana:

"Senator Fall, do you care to make any further statement about matters under consideration by the committee?"

Unfolding a typewritten manuscript, the witness announced in a clear and firm voice that he declined to answer. There was a visible stir among the spectators who had expected this session of the committee to furnish a climax to the long months of the hearing.

Still in a clear voice which carried well around the big room, the one time subject once more declined to answer the question whether he would not subject himself to further examination by the committee.

EXECUTIVE SESSION

The hearing at an end, Chairman Lenroot announced that the committee would go into executive session and the room would be cleared.

Also the executive session dragged on for an hour, those who had come in search of further sensations stood to their posts, only to be disappointed by an announcement that the committee had adjourned until next Tuesday at 10 a. m. Fall was apprised of the decision of the committee to recall him at that hour and he left the building, returning to the Zervy home.

Later in the day his counsel called on Chairman Lenroot with a request that the former secretary be permitted to go to some nearby place over the week end to rest and recuperate. Cooke was informed that Fall would be required to be present next Tuesday and on the basis of this information plans were made for the former secretary to spend the intervening two days in a nearby suburb.

In an executive discussion of Fall's statement, there was some talk of contempt proceedings, but in the main the committee addressed itself to the rather unexpected challenge of its authority to go forward on the ground that the original authority called for hearings only until the new congress assembled.

SENATE ACTION SOUGHT

Finally Senator Walsh made a motion, which prevailed, that the committee ask the senate to readopt the original resolutions providing for the investigation. Thus with its authority reaffirmed after the adoption of the Welsh amendment readopted by the committee will again give Fall opportunity to make any statement he may desire and submit himself for examination. Should he refuse, the committee will then take up the question of contempt. Senators hold that they have ample authority under a statute which reads:

"Whenever a witness summoned as mentioned in section 102 (relating to witnesses summoned before congressional committees) fails to testify and the facts are reported to either house, the president of the senate or the speaker of the house as the case may be, shall certify the fact under seal of the senate or house to the district attorney for the District of Columbia whose duty it shall be to bring the matter before the grand jury for their action."

As to Fall's contention that his testimony might tend to incriminate him in any possible future court proceedings, senators called attention to section 859 of the revised statutes, which says:

"No testimony given by a witness before either house or before any committee of either house of congress shall be used as evidence in any criminal proceedings against him in any case except in the prosecution for perjury committed in giving such testimony. But an official paper or record produced by him is not within the said proviso."

Two outstanding precedents for court action for contempt of a house of congress were cited. The most recent was that of H. Snowden Marshall, former federal district attorney at New York City. This was in 1916, at a time when a committee of the house was taking testimony in an impeachment hearing against Marshall. The attorney wrote a letter to the committee regarding the hearings, which the house held to place him in contempt and a warrant for his arrest was issued and the case certified to the courts in New York for trial.

An early contempt proceeding before the senate was that of William Duane, editor of the Philadelphia Evening Advertiser in 1860, as a result of an article published in that paper regarding senate proceedings which the senate held to be "false, defamatory, scandalous and malicious." Mr. Duane was cited before the bar of the senate but failed to appear and Thomas Jefferson, as president of the senate, signed a warrant for his arrest. The courts were remanded to the court at Philadelphia where congress was then sitting and Mr. Duane was sentenced to two months in jail.

Mainly About People

A former Lima boy, Rev. George Taylor, D. D., pastor of First Presbyterian church at Williamsburg, Pa., will be heard in a radio program broadcasted by station KDKA Sunday afternoon. He is the son of George Taylor, 118 W. Market-st.

Christian Endeavor workers will hold a convention at the outside Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon and societies throughout Pennsylvania and Ohio have been asked to tune in on the program which will start at 2:45 p. m. Pittsburgh time.

Chief of Police Lanher has accepted the invitation from the national committee on police welfare to attend the conference in New York of the National Association of Chiefs of Police. His expenses are to be paid by the association. Altho it is not known just what date it will be held, the meeting is expected to be soon.

the books of the other brokers is contemplated.

None of the former cabinet officers in the Wilson administration, who E. L. Doherty has told the committee were retained as counsel for his company after they retired from office has been asked to be heard by the committee as yet. William G. McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury and a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, is expected to request a hearing, however, after his arrival here from California. Assuming that he had received $150,000 in fees instead of the $250,000 figure given by Doherty, McAdoo has announced that he will seek opportunity to testify.

Former Attorney General Gregory arrived here Saturday from Texas, but his conference with President Coolidge was deferred until Sunday. The executive definitely made up his mind Friday not to recall Gregory, who was his first selection as Democratic counsel because of the testimony given by Doherty that Gregory had acted as counsel for the island and other oil companies.

The decision having been reached, Mr. Coolidge summoned former Senator Pomerene to Washington and had a long conference with him Saturday, when Pomerene accepted appointment as special counsel in the oil cases. Formal announcement was withheld as the executive desires to consult with democratic leaders in the senate beforehand.

Announcement in Chicago that Strawn's law firm has acted for the Texas company in Chicago is looking after local collections brought word from the white house that the character of this service was not regarded as such as would prove in any way embarrassing to Strawn in carrying forward the work he already has undertaken for the government.

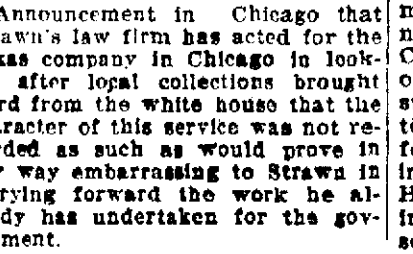

THE second alleged worthless check passed by Harry Bradford, now in the city jail, was discovered Saturday by Emmet J. Jackson, former judge of the criminal court, and now manager of the Standard Oil Co.'s interests in Lima. It was made out for $10 to the keeper of the city station, to whom Bradford is said to have owed some money. Bradford is now in the city jail awaiting the convening of the grand jury. He pleaded guilty Saturday to forging a $50 check on J. Meyerson, a south side junk dealer.

DATE OF BIDS SET ON SEWER JOB

Defaulted Jones Project Goes Forward Another Step

OPENING WILL BE FEB. 23

City To Reserve 15 Day Period
To Consider Offers

Completion of the Jones sewer project advanced another step with announcement by City Manager C. A. Bligh that bids for the intercepting sewer would be received at noon of Saturday, Feb. 23 at the city hall.

Bids specify construction of two and four foot main sewer along and adjacent to Ottawa river with one footed side sewer for the river and a 12 inch sewer for 12 to 26 inch in diameter.

A 15 day period is reserved by the city for consideration of bids having authority to accept one offer or to reject all and readvertise for a new one.

Purchase by the Well, Roth Irving Co., Cincinnati, of the $100,000 bond is authorized by commissioners for completion of the defaulted project, removed all obstacles and provided finances.

MONEY SUFFICIENT
Approximately $187,000 on deposit in the bank for sewer improvement is available in addition to the $100,000 from the bond issue and the total amount is considered sufficient to complete the work.

The Fred H. Jones Construction Co., defaulted after a request for an additional $21,000 supplemental contracts had been rejected by commissioners who offered to let him bid on putting in a block of new sewer part of the general plan to let him recapture his losses on the intercepting sewer job.

End of the Jones construction Co. was approximately $10,000 lower than that of others which ranged from $10,000 to $15,000.

In defaulting Jones claimed that the city in the profiles and specifications failed to indicate that the rock formation was two feet above the flow line of the sewer, which condition necessitated considerable expense by blasting.

SPECIFICATIONS CITED
The specifications also detailed showed the rock formation to be two feet below the flow line of the sewer.

An alleged uncharted parallel sewer on Church-st. is claimed by the construction company to have caused added expense in that the sewer walls were broken while blasting and water flooded the intercepting sewer, holding up the work.

Liability bond of $120,000 carried by the Federal Indemnity Co. of New York for completion of the job has been cancelled and the city will have to file civil action against the indemnity company for restitution of financial loss.

City Manager Bligh announced that such action would be taken but not until completion of the job which is one of the most important items in the $3,000,000 sewer program long contemplated by the city. Amount of loss suffered would then be determined and suit filed against the indemnity company.

PATRICK LAWLOR, AGED 90, DIES

Retired Lima Grocer Was Born
Dec. 24, 1833, in Ireland

Patrick H. Lawlor, 90, 451 W. Michigan-st., died Saturday at 5:30 p. m. at his home. He was one of the most widely known men in Lima.

Lawlor was born in King, Co., Ireland, Dec. 24, 1833, and served in the English cavalry from 1851 to 1858. He came to the United States from England in 1862.

He married Miss Johanna O'Keefe of Lima Feb. 21, 1868. For many years he conducted a grocery in the Lawlor block on E. Wayne-st. He retired from active business life in 1900.

Surviving members of his family are the widow, Mrs. J. O. Hettich, Lafayette, Ohio; Mrs. John M. Bugham, Columbus; Mrs. Arthur C. Letz, Lima; Thomas J. Lawlor, Toledo; and James Emmett Lawlor, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed awaiting word from the son in Oklahoma.

PLAYGROUNDS HIT

City Unable To Make Planned
Improvements This Year

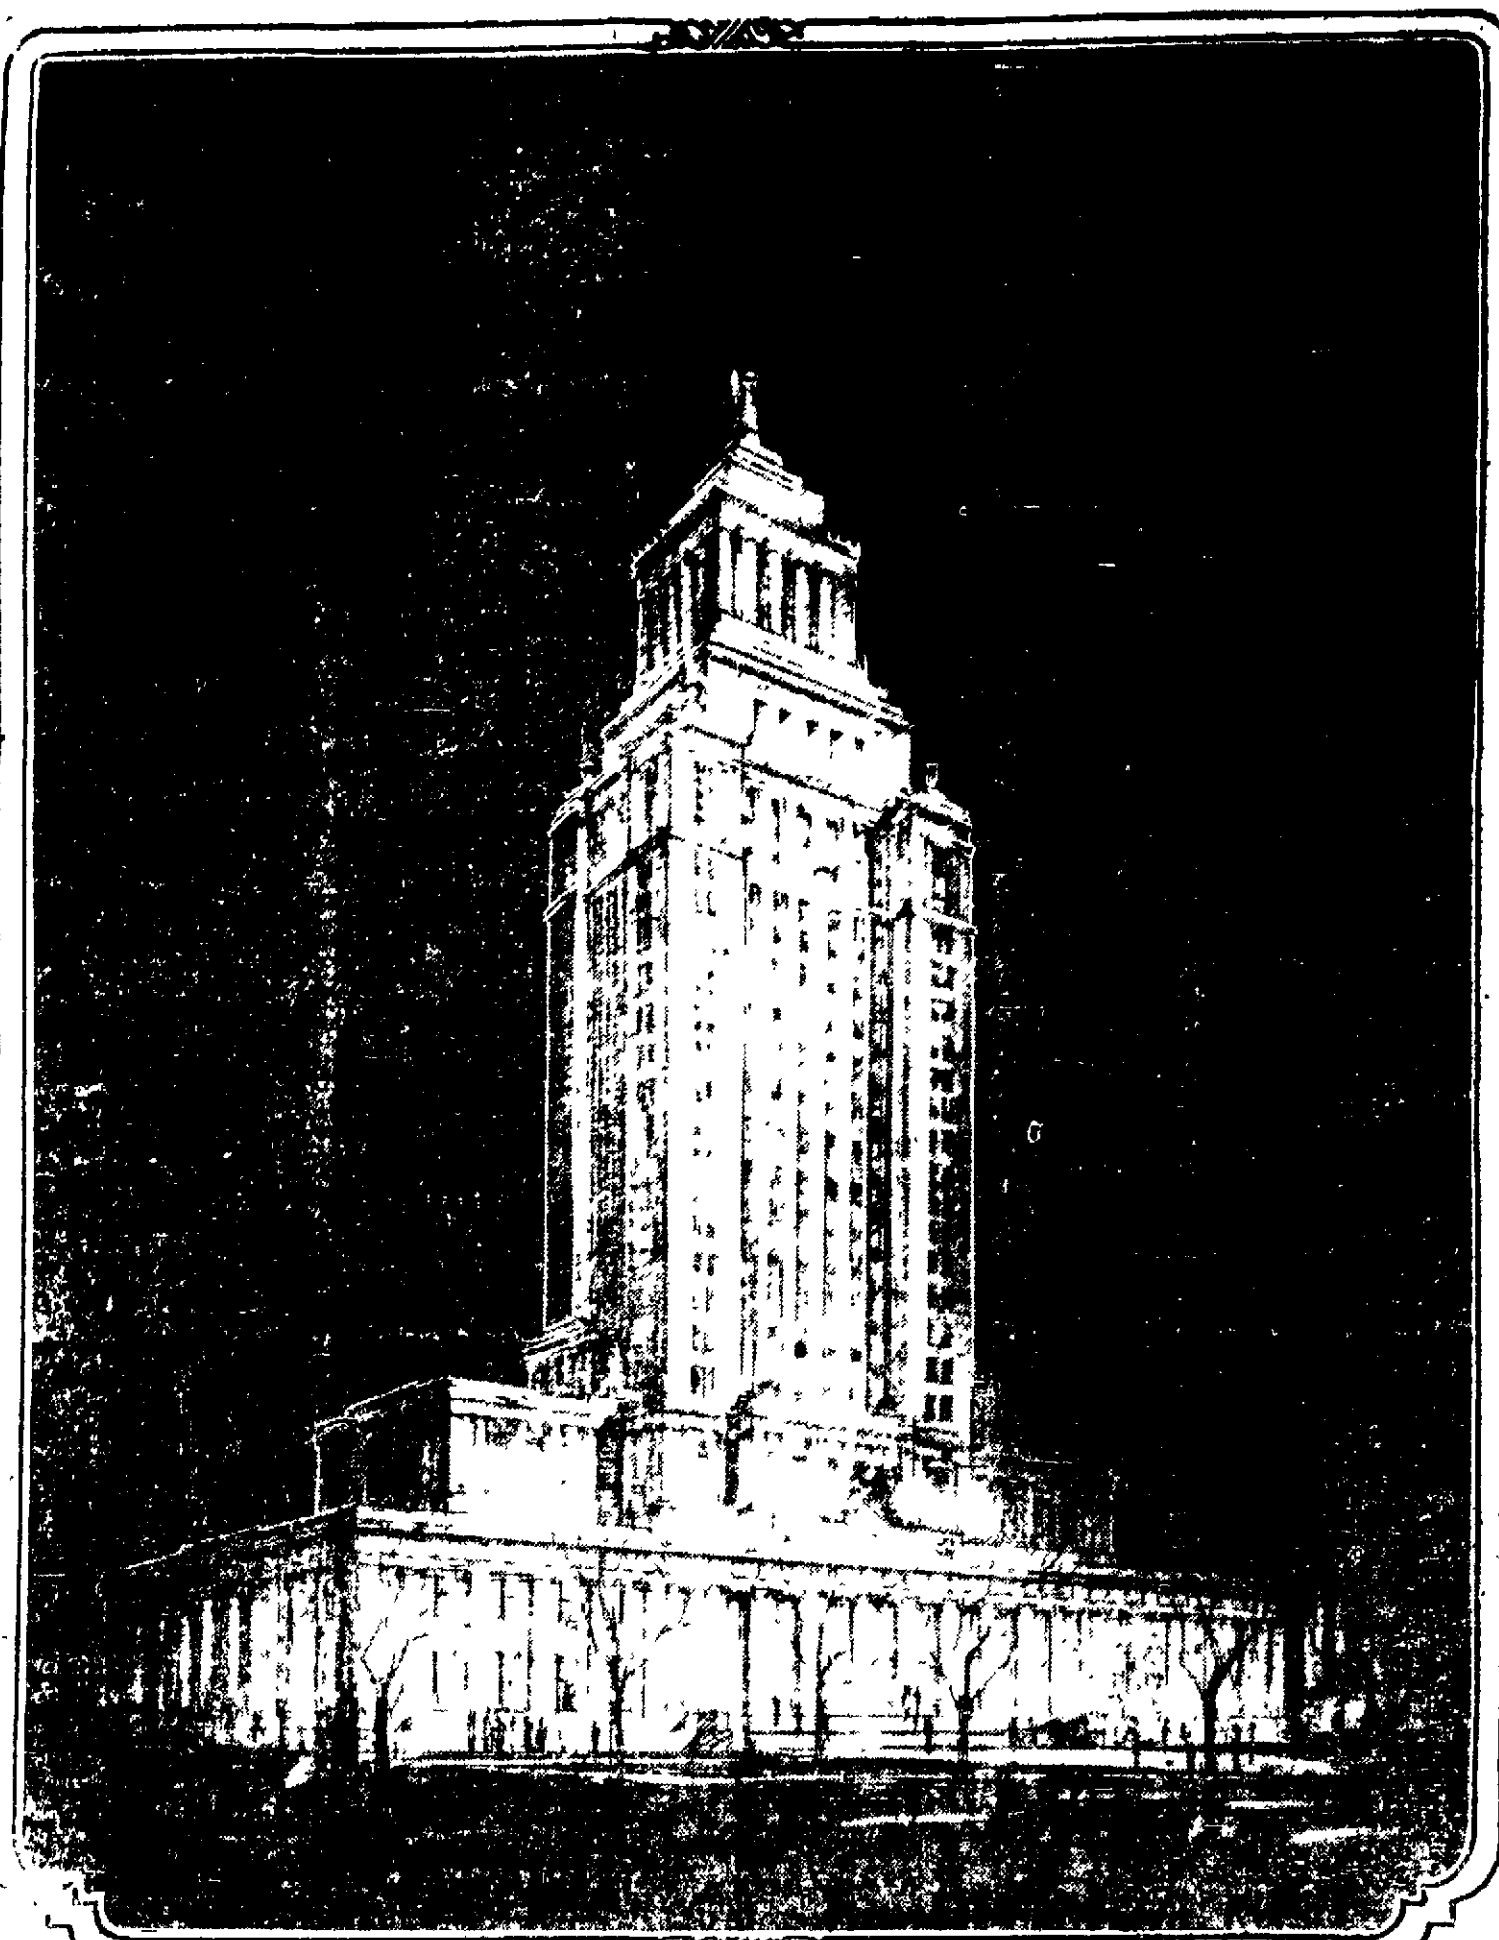

Contemplated improvements of public playgrounds by installation of additional equipment has been killed for this summer by the financial shortage facing the city.

Mayor Phil Meyer said Saturday afternoon that while public playgrounds are taken by clubs and civic organizations the playgrounds will be operated with the same equipment as last year.

In the annual budget $1,000 was appropriated for Kautz park and $550 for Lincoln park in comparison with $1,500 and $200 respectively for Kautz and Lincoln parks. This fund is utilized for upkeep and maintenance, allowing no reserve for purchase of equipment.

Supervised play on municipal playgrounds is a vital asset to a city, according to Mayor Meyer who proposed that one of the leading civic clubs sponsor a movement to provide additional equipment for playgrounds of children.

LIMA ARCHITECT OFFERS PLAN FOR NEW STATE OFFICE BUILDING

Plans drawn by Thomas D. McLaughlin, Lima architect, may be the basis for the proposed office building to house all state offices.

This was revealed Saturday when drawings and plans for the remodeling of the state house at Columbus along modern lines by the addition of a 24-story office building.

McLaughlin's plans call for the removal of the "chicken box" from the top of the present state house and the erection of a steel and concrete skyscraper to conform to the general architecture of the present building.

This plan would make it unnecessary for a site to be purchased by the state and would result in a modern building in the center of the city.

If these suggestions are accepted it will be possible for the state to erect the new building at a cost of $1,000,000 and $1,000,000 less than the present building and it was estimated that $1,000,000 of this would be used in the purchase of a site.

A commission composed of Governor A. V. Donnelly, Attorney General C. E. Hoover and Auditor F. V. McLaughlin will be called to authorize the construction.

In the meantime, his plan McLaughlin said that the present state house would be used until the new building is completed.

Dr. Hastings H. Hart, for fifteen years past a child-holding doctor at the R. H. Sage Foundation, will speak at the Lima Open Forum at 2:30 p. m. This subject will be "Prison Reform."

JAIL REFORMER SPEAKS HERE

Dr. Hastings H. Hart Addresses
Open Forum Sunday

Dr. Hastings H. Hart, for fifteen years past a child-holding doctor at the R. H. Sage Foundation, will speak at the Lima Open Forum at 2:30 p. m. This subject will be "Prison Reform."

Dr. Hart is a native of Ohio and is past president of the American Prison Association, and is the father of several prison reforms, among which are: the parole system, indeterminate sentence, juvenile court, abolition of prison stripes, abolition of prison contract labor, institution of self-government, abolition of the apprentice system.

He wrote the first juvenile court law in the state of Illinois and has been called into consultation on the subject of penal systems of many states. He has spoken in Lima before the state welfare conference.

Dr. Hart will speak at 9 p. m. in the church, at 11 a. m. in Market-st. Lutheran church, and at 7 p. m. at the Ottawa Open Forum, Ottawa Trinity church.

ROTARY PLANS SECOND DISCUSSION OF CHEST

The second week of discussion of the community chest will be observed at the Rotary club Monday meeting in the Norvel hotel, according to Robert W. Austin, secretary.

Last week's discussion proved so interesting that it will be repeated. Members are requested to note that only nine weeks remain until the conference of the 21st District of the Rotary International here.

PAY YOUR TAXES, BOTKINS WARNS

County Treasurer Opens War On 100 Delinquents

Opening shot were fired Saturday by Harry F. Botkins, county treasurer in a war on the delinquent taxpayers, who owe personal taxes.

Letters warning the delinquents to pay up were mailed Saturday to more than 100 persons. A second crop of mail will go out Monday.

Approximately $80,000 personal tax outstanding will be collected. Botkins declares, if he has to call in Sheriff Crook to levy and seize property.

If the taxpayers who are in arrears are in the county, Botkins says, he will compel them to pay. Many persons on his list, he says, have moved away.

Between $5,000 and $10,000 back personal tax was collected last year by Treasurer Botkins. As a result of the collection, both the county and county received larger amounts than was anticipated at the Auditor's settlement.

The tax books will be turned back to the Auditor Phillips in about two weeks, it was learned Saturday. Collections for the first half year so far have exceeded $1,100,000, according to Botkins. This money is still trickling in, he said.

LIMIT TO BE PLACED ON HEAVY LOADS ON ROADS

A ban on heavy hauling on Allen roads will go into effect early in the week, County Supervisor Ed Smith announced Saturday.

The limit on loads of various sized vehicles has not been decided, Smith said, but will be announced Monday and a date for the load lightening edit to go into effect will be fixed.

Smith is authorized under the law to act to prevent big trucks carrying heavily loaded wagons from cutting up the highways in wet weather.

Since the January thaw the roads have been in very sorry condition. The load limit is usually invoked until later in the year, but even weather compels action, Smith said.

1924 BONDS TOTAL $362,431.22

Interest City Must Pay During Year Is Even Greater

AUDITOR QUITE OPTIMISTIC Issues Will Be Met Promptly, Churchill Declares

Maturing bonds aggregating $362,431.22 will be paid off by sinking fund trustees during 1924 in addition to $269,789.33 interest on bonded indebtedness, according to City Auditor C. H. Churchill.

Bonded indebtedness of the city Jan. 1, 1924, aggregated $6,774,379.17, being carried over from 1923. Bonds maturing each month will be met promptly to retain the city's credit rating, reducing the bonded indebtedness to $6,411,947.95 at the end of the year, exclusive of new issues authorized.

As new issues are sold the amounts will be added to outstanding indebtedness after monthly maturities and interest have been met. So far one issue of $140,000 has been floated. It was for completion of the Jones construction job and for the city's portion of the Metcalf viaduct.

OPTIMISM PREVAILS
Optimism was expressed by Auditor Churchill on the city's ability to meet 1924 maturities and interest. "We will have a squeeze a little," he said, "but we will make payments."

Interest each month averages greater than the maturing bonds, totalling $269,789.33 for the year, necessitating the city to expend $322,220.55 on maturing bonds and interest by Dec. 31.

Bonds maturing in the general fund for the year approximate $111,000 and interest is $121,449.35, electric lights $4,000 due in bonds and $1,215 interest waterworks, $16,500 in bonds and $1,430 in interest; special assessments, $200.

NEW CHURCH BUILDING TO BE COMPLETED SOON

Construction of the new High United Brethren church at the corner of High and Cole-sts is progressing at a rapid rate and the building will be completed in the near future.

A temporary roof has been placed on the structure and the doors and windows have been set in place. As soon as possible services will be held in the new structure and the old church, which has been moved to the rear of the lot will be abandoned.

YOU'LL HAVE TO GET BACK YOUR OLD-TIME VIM

It Takes Keen, Active
Men of Blood and Iron
To Make Money Today.

IF YOU WANT
AHEAD!

Tired, Nervous Weaklings, Lack the Force,
Courage and Will-Power to Succeed.

WITHOUT health and strength your brain cannot work right. You are no match for the live, wide-awake vigorous fellow. He steps ahead of you with ease while you slip back—and soon people begin to speak of you as a failure in business, a poor provider in your home and a selfish, weak blanket of selfish affairs—burden to your self and to others.

Yet as a matter of fact you are probably not suffering from anything like the number of ailments you think you are, and once you put more iron into your blood to make it rich and red you will quickly notice a bulking of alarming symptoms disappear. Iron is absolutely necessary to enable your blood to change from thin to living tissue muscle and brain.

NUXATED IRON, for example, contains iron like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples and like the iron in your blood. If you feel tired in the morning, restless at night or if you suffer from weakness or lack of vitality, you owe it to yourself to make the following test.

See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five grain tablets of ordinary Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks.

Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. Numbers of your run-down people who were along all the while have astonishingly increased their strength and endurance in two weeks' time while taking iron in the proper form. And this is true of all drugs.

after they had in some cases been going on for months without getting benefit from anything. Nuxated Iron is prescribed and recommended by physicians and used by over 4,000,000 people annually. Success guaranteed or money refunded. Write for all details.

SOUTH HIGH CLUBS BUSY AGAIN

Social Activities Resumed as Exams Are Concluded

After the usual lull in activities around examination time, social affairs will resume in fullest measure during the coming week. Clubs will be more active than ever before from now on till the end of the semester.

A sectional conference of the Boys' Hi-Y was held Saturday at the Y. M. C. A. Representatives from Kenton, Wapak, Bellefontaine, Findlay, Piquette, Van Wert, Lima Central, Lima South and several other small towns were present. Lunch was served at noon with Douglas Dale of Central, toastmaster, and Chester Biddle, of South, was toastmaster to the Friendship dinner at five thirty.

The South club will meet next Wednesday at a six o'clock dinner.

A representative from the Lima Gas Co. has been procured to speak to members of the Science club next Monday. His topic, "Artificial Gas and How It Is Manufactured," will be very interesting to the club members as well as being of educational value, according to President Henry Apple.

The senior play committee has been appointed and the members are rubbing their heads trying to decide on the class play. Several meritorious productions are under serious consideration. Marguerite Jones, chairman; Gladys Frederick, Cathin Early and Henry Giberson are serving on the committee. The play is dated for March 14. Thelma Irwin is president of the senior class.

Members of Nature Study will enjoy a trip to Memorial hall next week to view the collection of butterflies and moths in the historical room of that building. The collection there, a very extensive one as different species of butterflies and moths have been brought from all parts of the world.

Miss Davidson, supervisor, will talk to members of her Freshmen Girls Science club on various kinds of soaps. She will tell how and when and what type of soap should be used for toilet and laundry. She will also differentiate between good toilet soaps and good laundry soaps.

The Tiroes Society will feature with a Mock Teachers' meeting next Monday. George Mowry, Russell Slater, Mary Teitzman, Audrey Meyer, Louise Bowers, Lena Miller, Don Rex Samuel Griffin and Donald Blanchard will impersonate South's faculty. Due to the departure of Miss Shumaker, former supervisor of the club the club has a new head Miss Marvin, a member of the faculty for two years ably fills the position.

Comets will be the main point of discussion at the meeting of the Astronomy club. Each member will give a short talk on different comets. At the last meeting many interesting facts were revealed concerning these mysterious heavenly inhabitants.

Members of the Ye Merrie Players who are in the junior class will present a very clever and well worked out play entitled "The Rehearsal" by Christopher Morley. Olive Hawkins, Vera Leedy, Lillian Greenbaum, Alice Nesbitt and Elizabeth Kart-hausen hold part in the cast. A mock trial at the last meeting proved to make up an unusually good program. Vaughn Fry was counsel for the plaintiff, John Goodrich, who accused the defendant, Neva Leasure of cheating in the History exam. Erin Emans was counsel for the defendant Judge Leland Meeks held the "big stick" over the whole affair. The preparation was mostly impromptu but several displayed unusual ability at serving in the courts.

The Effect of a High School Education will be discussed by members of the Seventh Grade Dramatic Society. Helen Edgar and Katherine Thole will lead the discussion. The club members are also writing short plays which will be turned in at an early date and the select ones will then be dramatized by the society.

The Girls Glee club will have a mixed program this week. Musical compositions will be released by different periods. (1) Old compositions. (2) Eighteenth Century and War compositions and (3) Works of the Modern Composers. They will also work on the Lullaby by Brahms. Initial preparations for the Massedetto are being made and South songsters are determined that at least one Lima school will not hold the booby prize this year.

"Our Aunt from California" will be presented by the Masquers Monday. Cecil Jones plays the part of Mrs. Needy, Evelyn Fees as Felicia Needy, Helen Morey as Rosalie, Opal Crawford as Sally, Mary Ireland—Mrs. Merry Muntoburn and Mildred Nambitt as the maid. Sally impersonates her rich aunt. The aunt appears just in time to be mistaken for a burglar but is saved from a day in jail by the return of Mrs. Needy. During this time the other girls are trying to win a promised trip to Europe and after a few more complications all ends satisfactorily.

The Sophomore Literary Society will give a good English program in the form of a play entitled "Bound or Freed." The play will take place Good English week and will be presented before the entire school. Rehearsals will be held Monday. Miss Rees will supervise the play.

The new gym is rapidly nearing completion and it is hoped that the next home game will be played on the new floor. The gym will be one of the most modern and well equipped in the state.

PUBLIC LIBRARY GETS NEW FANNIE HURST NOVEL

One of the newest additions to the Lima Public Library is Fannie Hurst's latest and longest novel "Lummon." It is another of her realistic pieces of fiction.

Lummon is a fat-faced household servant of Slavic ancestry but of New York birth. She is an earth woman, of dark people, loving and understanding all the elemental things of life. She moves about thru her sordid environment, which is so common in Mrs. Hurst's novels, and gives life to all those who come in contact with her. She has been called by many a "heavyweight Pippa" and while she does not go thru her world singing, her life blesses those whom it touches.

As a whole, the book is not a pleasant story to read, but it is one of great strength and is handled masterfully. It is a book well worth reading, but meant only for the adult.

The library also has increased its stock of dramas. Many new one-act plays, the works of foreign authors but translated into English, have been added to the already large collection. Among them are "Brian Hooker's translation of Cyrano de Bergerac-Gauley's 'Loyalities,' 'You and I' by Davis; and Rachael Crother's three plays 'Mary the Third,' 'Old Lady 31,' and 'A Little Journey.'

TWO PROJECTS UP MONDAY NIGHT

Waterworks Proposal to Be Before Commissioners

APPROVAL NOW PREDICTED

South Side Trunk Line Sewer Also to Be Considered

Two improvement projects planned for 1924 are to be aired Monday night at commission meeting and some direct action is predicted by those who presented the issues.

City Manager C. A. Bingham's $75,000 water main extension plan calling for issuance of bonds looks as if it will meet with approval and legislation ordered for the bond issue.

Commissioners unanimously supported Bingham's south side project calling for 10 and 12 inch mains for distributing purposes to meet the rapid growth but desired to investigate financial obligations of the waterworks department before adding another load.

BOND ISSUES DUE Approximately $250,000 in water works bonds are due in 1925. The city can meet the maturities but it is doubtful if it can meet an added $3,000 which would be necessary if the $75,000 issue is passed, bearing interest from date of issuance and payable each year, starting in 1925. Development of the south side district adjoining St. Johns-av is seen as the improvement project introduced by Commissioner Earl Rohn.

Rohn proposed a main trunk sewer on St. Johns-av joining with the central sewer and connecting up the intersecting streets which are expected for improvement by paving.

Legislation of necessity to proceed with project prepared by Solicitor Landis and may be presented Monday night. Who the project does not require immediate attention commissioners are agreed to pass necessary legislation and have everything in readiness when work is to be started.

Miss LaVerne Kelly of Huntington, W. Va., and Mrs. C. W. Vale of Cincinnati were called to this city, due to the illness of their father, M. L. Kelly, W. Elm-st.

Dr. Ross Parish, president of the Putnam-ee Council of Churches will speak on the sectional conference recently held in that county at the luncheon to be held at 6 p. m. Twenty-five ministers were present at the last meeting, and more are expected Monday.

COURT SUSPENDS JURY TRIALS TILL FEB 11

No more jury trials will be held in common pleas court until Feb. 11, Judge Becker informed panel members Saturday.

The jury was released following termination of a $50,000 personal injury action brought by Mrs. Myrtle Patterson against the D. T. & I. railroad following an accident in E. High-st crossing April 24, 1923.

The jury after short deliberation Saturday found a verdict for $5,800 in Mrs. Patterson's favor. Counsel for the railroad company announce they will appeal the case.

DRAMATICS HOLD CENTRAL STAGE

Plays, Work on Mirror Divide Interest With Contest

Once again dramatics take the limelight at Central high school with the announcement that tryouts for the senior play will be held this week and that the annual opera of the Glee club will be presented Thursday, Feb. 21.

"His Majesty, Bunker Bean," said to be one of the most successful plays ever written for high school production, has been chosen by the senior class for its annual play and Frederick Roberts, president of the senior play, and Miss Isora Shumaker, dramatic supervisor, expect that this play will be a huge success.

Parts for "The Wishing Well," a three-act musical comedy by May Wilson Dodge and John Wilson Dodge, were assigned Friday afternoon by Mark Evans, director of the production. Richard Rohn will have the lead and Miss Ruby Gunther will play opposite him. Others in the cast are Evelyn Bowsher, Delma Chapman, Chet Patterson, Ruth Pratt, Norma Sullivan, Kent Bowsher, Charles E. Woods, Olive Parmenter, Bernice Rosenbaum.

The play is a romance of old Ireland, full of rich brogue and biting memories, according to the high school Mirror. Tickets for the play will go on sale early next week.

Work on the Annual Mirror is well under way and it is said by Robert Shaffer, editor-in-chief, that copy will soon start to be prepared for the printers. Photographs are almost completed and art posters for the division pages are being rapidly moulded into shape.

Members of the editorial and art staff will meet with Russell R. Benson of the Pontiac Engraving Co. of Chicago to work on panels some time this week, it is said.

Advertising work is also coming along nicely, according to Business Manager Richard Cantienny.

Much interest was shown in the annual popularity contest which was conducted by the Mirror and which ended Friday. Many of the positions were awarded to prominent athletes and others prominent in school affairs.

A series of motion pictures will be given in the school auditorium starting Feb. 29, according to Principal R. E. Offenbauer. Each year a series of popular movies are given and proceeds used for various school activities. Three programs will be offered according to present plans.

Trial of those responsible in the Teapot Dome scandal will be held in the senate Wednesday. Senators are taking the positions of various people connected with the scandal and prosecution will be led by the senators representing government personages.

FRANK CALLAHAN NAMED CO. G. 1ST LIEUTENANT

Appointment of Frank Callahan, 419 W. McKibben-st., as first lieutenant of Company G, 148th Infantry, was announced Saturday by Major Frank Hume. Appointment went into effect on Feb. 1.

Lieut. Callahan served overseas with the 53rd Division until October 31, 1918, when he was commissioned a second lieutenant at Langes school and assigned to the 39th Infantry, Fourth Division. He served in Germany until July 19, 1919.

WHO FOR GOVERNOR?

HUKE and cry raised weeks and months ago among adherents of the Democratic party, for a candidate to be pitted against Governor A. W. Donahay in the August primary this year, appears to have subsided to such an extent as to be now almost negligible.

In fact, it has been succeeded by an apparent state of mind among Democrats that it would be not only unwise, but really foolish, to carry grievances against the governor in his own party to the point of endeavoring to shoo him off the job by primary elimination, since this is a presidential year and the party will naturally wish to refrain from any move that would lead doubt in the matter of making the Buckeye state Democratic.

On the other hand, Republicans firmly wedded to the belief that Ohio will go Republican in the election of a president, and possibly witness the success of the entire state ticket also, are frankly worried just now, as a result of the Teapot Dome oil scandal disclosures and the fact that there are a large number of party men aspiring to the governorship.

It is recalled that former Governor Harry L. Davis was elected in a presidential year—1920—when it appeared certain that he could not win. The state went overwhelmingly Republican for Warren G. Harding for president—and the state ticket went along with him, by reduced majorities, however. Davis did not run in 1922 for a second term, apparently withdrawing of his own free will. But now it's different. He is making a noise like an honest-to-goodness candidate, and whether he will be able to line up the support of the federal organization and the city leaders is uncertain. It is admitted he must have that support to win the nomination.

In the meantime, while the bestowal of the favor of the leaders is in doubt, other candidates are kicking up the dust—to the best of their ability as individuals.

GOVERNMENT BY DEFAULT

FACTS exist in connection with the election of United States senators—and men for most any other position for that matter—which show that while we fondly believe we have government by majority rule—we haven't.

One needs but point to the record in connection with the choosing of U. S. senators. Figures compiled by the National Security League disclose an amazing situation. As they affect Ohio, they also apply in a similar manner to some 32 other states of the union, according to information disclosed by the league.

Reference is made to the fact that usually majority does not rule, as most of us are wont to believe. It is so in the election of a president. A candidate may have a majority of the popular vote, and still fail to have a majority of the votes in the electoral college. This has occurred frequently.

For example, the election of U. S. Senator S. D. Fess is far from being reflective of the will of the majority. The total number of citizens of voting age in Ohio in the 1922 election was given at 3,228,234. The total vote cast was 1,560,231, or 48 per cent of the total possible vote. Of this number, Fess received 794,153, or 25 per cent of the possible vote.

In other states, in the election of senators, the percentage was as low as seven, for Senator Stephens in Mississippi, and as high as 42 per cent, for Senator Pittman in Nevada. While it isn't exactly majority government under which we are living, there appears to be no method of correcting it, except thru a plan that would require the successful candidate to receive a majority of the total possible vote. Under such circumstances, it would then be necessary to adopt some means whereby those eligible to vote could be forced to visit the polls and register their will.

However, it might be well for persons now living to refrain from entertaining the belief that they will see such a change. It isn't likely.

YOUR EXPENSES

THE cost of living now is about 65 per cent higher than when the war started in 1914. This is the latest estimate by National Industrial Conference Board. It arrives at its figure by striking an average for the whole country. In some communities, cost of living is higher. Other places, it's lower.

Also keep in mind that the 65 per cent figure is for a wage-earner with five in family.

In simpler terms, it now costs $1.65 to buy what cost $1 before the war. Also, a man must make $1.65 now to have an income equivalent to what $1 was in pre-war days. Interesting, for the individual to figure up and find how his income compares with "what should be," on this basis.

Do you live on a budget system—divide your income in advance, allowing so much for rent, so much for food, and so on? Here are the N. I. C. Board's figures showing how spending should be scientifically divided:

Out of a $10 bill, the Board figures $4.31 for food, $1.77 for rent or other shelter, $1.32 for clothing, 56 cents for fuel and light, $2.04 for "sundries." These figures cover only the income actually spent. They do not include the 10 or 20 per cent which experts say must be saved to provide properly for old age and success.

Consolation: While the Board reports that it now takes $1.65 to buy what cost $1 before the war, an outlay of $2.95 was required in purchasing the same stuff at the price peak in July, 1920, and don't forget about the increase in wages since 1914.

LAND VALUES

NEW YORK talks of tearing down the Sixth-avenue elevated and replacing it with a subway, to be paid for by assessing nearby property owners one per cent a year for a decade. Strangely enough, a large number of Sixth-avenue property holders favor the levy. They figure the change would increase property values more than the cost.

It's an admission that property, especially land, gets its value mainly from the activities of outsiders.

EXPORTS TO GERMANY

OUR export business to Germany fell off a third in tonnage in 1923, compared with 1922. It also declined slightly in value. Imports from Germany increased nearly a third.

Almost half of our 1923 exports to Germany consisted of raw cotton. Lard was second, refined copper third.

Statistics show there will be 50,000 deaths by accident this year. Let's all get busy in Lima and help prove that figures lie.

—WITH APOLOGIES—

BY OH. OH. JACKENRIM

A Page from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:—Up mighty betimes, albeit a wee bit groggy. From too much sea air. There are some 365 of these islands, many uninhabited. There are no factories of any kind, the industry being farming, fruit and fishing. Rum running has been added during the past few years. As Bermuda is as close to New York as Cuba, are few private homes of Americans in comparison with Florida. Each year sees more Americans and in time, if not in a few years, cottages and villas will spring up. The servant problem here is not as expensive or as trying as in Florida. Cooks draw $12 a month and housemen $20. The hotels have a much longer season than in the south. Opening in December they run well into April. Rates are about the same as at the southern resort, and all hotel bills are payable in dollars.

The land sharks, like C. A.

Golf balls are cheaper. Silver Kings sell for 50c and Dornier for a half crown or 80c. You pay cadillac a shilling (21c) an hour. Lunched on an Egyptian quail, whatever that is, with chocolate glass for the sweetie. In the afternoon along the wharves watching the natives mending nets. Scallops and clams are plentiful. A traffic cop at Queens street and Front directs the bicycles and one-horse chaises, and is as serious as Mike Laughlin on Saturday nights. At High and Main.

You can hardly tell the poorer sections from the wealthy sections of the town. Only in size. Mixture two-room cottages are as spotlessly white as mansions. Green shutters which swing outward protect them from the extreme heat which comes in July and August.

In the afternoon saw six of our gang off on bicycles. That have three speeds. What with the steep hills and all, it takes some nerve. Stoneham, the broker, have not as yet discovered these isles. There and left to substitute self-power for Cuthbert Red Crown.

A picture show in St. George's is right up to date and playing "Black Oxen" this week. Along the road yesterday we saw where Annette Kellerman staged her dives in the cinema "Neptune's Daughter," which you have seen. Near there Pearl White played on the sands with her two tame lions.

Opening next month is a half-mile racing plant. They have both the harness and running horses. And sell pools, pari-mutuel or straight heat-baking. Several caves have been discovered in late years and we were in the largest yesterday. Two hundred feet under a hill. Water on the sand has formed all sorts of figures. A perfect castle on the Rhine is one formation, and named that by Secretary Hughes when here two years ago. Another formation is a Virgin Mary. Iron stairways have been built and the entire cave is electric lighted. Scary, and much like doing the catacombs near Rome. Except no dead or bones about.

There is an English governor here, but a mere figure-head who sits in his crown at the opening of each parliament. Then gracefully retires. The Bermudians have Home Rule, the first granted any colony. The 1922 census for the entire domain is only 20,127 and of these but 7,066 are white. They are now in debate over introducing motors or building a scenic railway to St. George's, 12 miles. When Mark Twain was last here they gave him a dinner and his advice is still heeded by the Tories: "Keep Bermuda Bermuda. There's only one in the world."

OH, WHAT A BUMP!

JUST FOLKS

BY HUGH A. GIBNEY
THE PAN IN THE BURN
I'm the sort of fellow that's fond of his home.
I'd rather sit there than to wander as a roamer;
I'd rather sit down with my pipe and a book
In that old easy chair in my library nook.
With my children about me, the wife smiling near,
The hum of the traffic too distant to hear.
Than travel afar at the end of the day
For the joy of a concert, a lecture or play.
I'm a home-loving chap, there's no doubt about that.
The thing I like most is to hang up my hat
On the hook in the hall, when the night time slips down,
And say: "Well, I'm done with the bustle of town!
I'm here where it's restful, I'm here where it's sweet!"
But even the joy of the home's not complete—
Yes, even the home would be fairer, I think,
Were it not for that pan which she keeps in the sink.

I'm not proud, I'm not fussy, I'm willing to bear
My portion of duty and labor and care.
But I hate with the hate of a venomous man
The feel of the drip of that kitchen pan!
That trip with that pan to the old alley gate!
I have courage enough, but from one task I shrink.
Tis to empty the pan which she keeps in the sink.

DIABETES

A little while ago I described in detail how to test your own heart.

Now I propose to carry this practice further by encouraging the mere layman to save, say another five to 30 dollars per annum by making his own test for sugar in the urine. Although the presence of sugar in the urine does not necessarily mean diabetes, for any of us can achieve a temporary glycosuria by indulging in the favorite social pastime of hogging sweets, still when sugar is found present it is certainly advisable to seek medical advice without delay. Since there are about a million cases of diabetes in the United States, you and I can run a one to a hundred chance of having the disease soon or late—you soon, and I late. I feel reasonably sure because you don't know so much about the cause of diabetes and how to prevent it as I do. I know ever so little about it myself, but that is a great deal more than you know, up to this moment. When you will have finished reading this epistle, provided you give me your undivided attention, you'll know as much as any of us knows about the causation and prevention of diabetes; it won't cost you a nervous breakdown either. O. K., it may save you one.

Here is the damning fact, which is pretty strong circumstantial evidence, if you believe in that kind of evidence. Diabetes is 20 times as rare in those who are underweight at the age of 40 years, and over 40 times in people who are thin at the age of 50 years. It is a disease most likely to occur in persons who are overweight; even if overweight is not the only cause of diabetes there is no question that within reasonable physiological limitation every individual can determine his own girth rate and displacement. Overweight is clearly brought about by (1) too much food or (2) insufficient daily exercise, or some shameful combination of these two sins. I tell the stark truth about it, not only from a moral disposition, but in the hope of arousing the fighting spirit of a lot of misguided folk who are headed toward diabetes and worse fates.

Enough of this joy killer. Let us get to the test. The simplest and most satisfactory test for glucose (sugar) in the urine is made thus:

To an inch or two of Benedict's solution in a test tube add eight or ten drops of urine. Boil the mixture for two minutes, and then let it stand to cool. If after cooling there is a yellow, green or reddish precipitate or cloudiness, that is sugar.

Copper sulphate—17.3 grams.
Sodium citrate—173.0 grams.
Sodium carbonate—200.0 grams.

Distilled water, enough to make: 1,000.0 cubic centimeters.

Benedict's test for glycosuria (sugar in the urine) is widely employed by diabetic patients under medical treatment to check up on their carbohydrate tolerance.

THIS LITTLE WORLD

—NEW ORLEANS

(By MANON DIXON)

NEW ORLEANS.—(Special).—This, "The City That Care Forgot," has apparently broken itself of the banana habit. It still clings, however, to the banana habit. According to the latest report of the City Board of Health, New Orleans is rushing itself to death, both in business and pleasure. The report also shows that we eat more bananas than any other community, population considered.

Somebody in New Orleans is making a fortune on the races. But these so far discovered gathering in the city are blind or deformed. When the race track opened for the winter season, the Louisiana Commission for the Blind got permission for eight blind men to sell programs within the track. These eight are selling more programs than all of the balance of the big force combined.

A bunch-back man stands outside the Fair grounds gates and permits those who intend to woo the ponies to rub his hump. He is always splendidly repaid. The blind men say these who bet on the horses think it brings good luck to buy programs from them.

The Vieux Carre, old French Quarter of New Orleans, is crowded with artists this winter. Some of them have pretty tough sledding. There is not any too much prosperity in the Latin Quarter. But artists are sometimes business men. When Eleanor Duse, the world-famous queen of tragedy, visited New Orleans, crayoned and autographed portraits of her quickly made their appearance. The Vieux Carre artists had made sketches of the tragedienne and copied her signature. These were sold at a good price. Parties were frequent in the studios.

Sweet potato pie made as only a French chef can make it, is the chief dessert in New Orleans this winter. The recent cold spell nipped all of the vegetables in the contiguous territory, and the market was flooded with sweet potatoes, which had been gathered prior to the freeze.

Louisiana is also cleaning up because the sweet potato crop throughout the country is only 40 per cent as large as it was last year, while this state produced a bumper crop, with nearly 8,000,000 bushels.

LEADERS OF MEN AIM FOR BOYS

Butcher Explains Principles of Scout Organization

PLAN BRIDLES GANG SPRINT

Movement Founded on Sound Psychology, Insight

Principles underlying units of organization in scouting are discussed today by Joseph M. Butcher, Lima scout executive, in the seventh of the series of articles which he has been writing for readers of The News.

By JOSEPH M. BUTCHER

In scouting the scoutmaster who is the adult leader for troop of thirty-two boys is the key man. The ideal scoutmaster is the one who has natural qualifications for leadership and who through training has developed his leadership ability to the point where he can pass it on and develop leadership among his own troop.

Practically every boy organization has as its objective "character training for good citizenship." Scouting has no monopoly on this feature. It does, however, emphasize one thing and that is the development not only of men, but of the greatest need of this country at the present time is that of men who are able to lead and take the initiative.

LEADERSHIP QUALITIES

The quality of leadership is part of a person, but is also largely determined by training and development. The only time when leadership can be developed so that it really becomes part of the character of the individual is during the scout age, when the mind is in a plastic state which makes such training possible. It is rather like learning to ride a horse; the man who takes up riding late in life may learn to "sit on," but he is unlikely to become the accomplished horseman that he might have been had he been given the chance as a boy.

This training is carried out by giving to the boy, thru the patrol system, opportunities for learning how to lead, by handling a small group of boys or patrol. But if we are to get results, this responsibility must be a real one, and not merely one in paper.

The scout patrol may be defined as a small, permanent group of boys who have similar interests, working together under the responsible leadership of one of its members, the patrol leader.

BOYS AND HIS GANG

Of all present-day organizations for the improvement and the happiness of normal boyhood of normal boys, wrote J. Adams Puffer in "The Boy and His Gang," "The Institution of the boy scouts is built on the soundest psychology and the shrewdest insight into boy nature." The scout patrol is simply a boy's gang, systematized, overseen, and directed with other like bodies, and efficient and interesting, as boys alone could never make it, and everywhere, from top to bottom, essentially a gang. Other organizations have adopted gang features. Others have built themselves around gang elements. The boy scout patrol alone is the gang.

No more than four patrols are allowed to unite to form a troop for the reason that experience has shown that it is impossible for one man to handle alone a larger group. In fact, the ideal troop organization is the ratio which holds thruout the national council leadership is one man to each six boys.

A scoutmaster, one or two assistants, and from three to five troop committeemen is the organization for which scouting strives. Representative from troops together with other citizens of a community unite to form a local council which supervises activities and trains leadership for a certain community over which it is given jurisdiction by charter from congress thru a National Council of Boy Scouts of America. The national council is required by charter from congress to report annually to the congress of the United States.

Another requirement of the Federal charter is the registration each year of every boy scout, thus scouts are directly accountable to the congress of the United States of America. His registration card is his first badge of citizenship. This annual registration also serves to keep the organization clear of dead members. It can never be carried over from one year to another, this when we say four hundred ninety-two thousand boys are registered, it means that that is the live membership.

SCOUTING IS A VOLUNTARY ORGANIZATION

In scouting, as in all other voluntary service, the scoutmaster, troop committeemen, council members, and members of special committees are all giving their time and effort thru a sense of responsibility to the community for its boyhood with over six hundred thousand boys and men registered in the scout movement. There is a paid professional force of less than seven hundred for the entire country. Participation by boys and men is purely voluntary, they are not "ordered" out for anything, their cooperation is requested and they function as an organization, each doing his part as he sees fit.

Thru cooperation with the national office and the broadcasting station KTW Lima scouts have been able to secure the broadcasting of a speech by Dr. George J. Fisher, deputy chief scout executive. A telegram was received at headquarters announcing completion of arrangements and the speech of the speaker will be "Scouting and the Nation's Need." The speech will be broadcasted by KTW, Chicago, Friday night, Feb. 15 beginning at 9:00 p. m. central standard time. The speech is to be delivered before one thousand campaign workers at the launching of a financial campaign for $250,000.00 budget for Chicago council, Boy Scouts of America.

Thomas Jones of troop 8, meeting at Market-st Presbyterian church, was appointed acting scoutmaster to J. F. McMillan in reorganizing troop 8. A meeting of the troop committee and scoutmaster and assistant with the executive was held last Monday night at which time it was decided to build up the troop to a larger number and to line up some plans and programs for the coming meetings.

Plans are on for the reorganization of troop 3 meeting at the South Side church of Christ and troop No. 2 meeting at Trinity M. E. church.

Troop 6, meeting at the Baptist church on Wednesday night is soon to have a regular scoutmaster, K. B. Bond recently appointed deputy commissioner will give his time to the organization and extension work assisting the commissioner of the council. Carl D. Crites has been appointed as Deputy commissioner assisting in inspection work.

An appointment of an expert examiner was announced by local headquarters, examining in the following subjects: Automobiling, bird study, blacksmithing, botany, camping, carpentry, civics, conservation, cooking, craftsmanship, cycling, electricity, financing, first aid, forestry, foundry practice, forestry, handicraft, insect life, interpreting Dutch, machinery, mining, personal health, public health, scholarship, signalling and surveying. These may be taken on Monday nights by application for a certificate at headquarters. As other examiners are appointed they will be announced and times and place assigned. Until other examiners are appointed headquarters will conduct examinations in merit badge and first class work.

At the court of honor to be held in the upper court room of the county courthouse on Tuesday, Feb. 5 at 7:30 p. m. merit badges will be awarded in the following subjects: Athletics, personal health, public health, machinery, handicraft, electricity, cooking, swimming, life saving, pioneering, automobiling, fireman-ship, civic, scholarship, first aid, and carpentry.

LIMA AUTO SHOW FEBRUARY 19 TO 23 INCLUSIVE

AUTO SHOW PLANS DEVELOPING

DOWN THE ROAD—DID YOU EVER KNOW IT TO FAIL—

By BECK

SIX CYLINDER IS POPULAR MOTOR

Europe, where the leading car always have been propelled by a cylinder engine.

Of the 22 companies that have been manufacturing motor cars twenty years or more, 14 are producing today, two are producing tomorrow, one is producing eight, two have both a four and six, and three others put the nameplates on both a six and eight.

Judging by the newcomers in the industry as well as the old timers, by statistics, and by trade comment, it is apparent that the six-cylinder type of construction is steadily forging ahead.

Out of the 104 different makes of cars, there are 68 which use the six-cylinder type of construction, or 65.4 per cent, compared with 54.8 per cent in 1920—a gain of more than ten per cent.

While this census shows a marked falling off in the total number of makes—42 less than in 1920—the per cent of six-cylinders is perceptibly boosted. The six with its total of 68 different makes, eclipses its nearest rival, the four, by 44, for there are 24 makes of fours now on the market. With a total of 12 different makes, the eights rank third in number, or 56 less than the number of sixes. Of the 12 eights, ten are of the V-type construction—one less than four years ago.

Another factor which makes room for the increasing number of sixes is the total absence of twelves in this year's summary; whereas, in 1920, there were three manufacturers who used this type of construction.

Among these listed among the 1924 manufacturers, there are seven companies which make both a six and a four, and two companies which produce a six and an eight. In the above comparison, each car has been considered a different make.

The tendency toward the six is evident among cars of nearly all prices—from around $1000 up to the most expensive. Rather than as a tendency toward the six, it might be more aptly described as a "return to the six," for it will be remembered that many years ago the six was the favored type of construction both in this country and in

In foreign country the acknowledged leader of each nation produces a six: the Rolls Royce, of England; the Fiat, of Italy; the Renault, France; the Minerva, of Belgium; the Hispano-Suiza, of Spain; and the Mercedes, of Germany.

In reporting the New York Show one of the leading trade papers makes the following editorial comment on the popularity of the six-cylinder motor design:

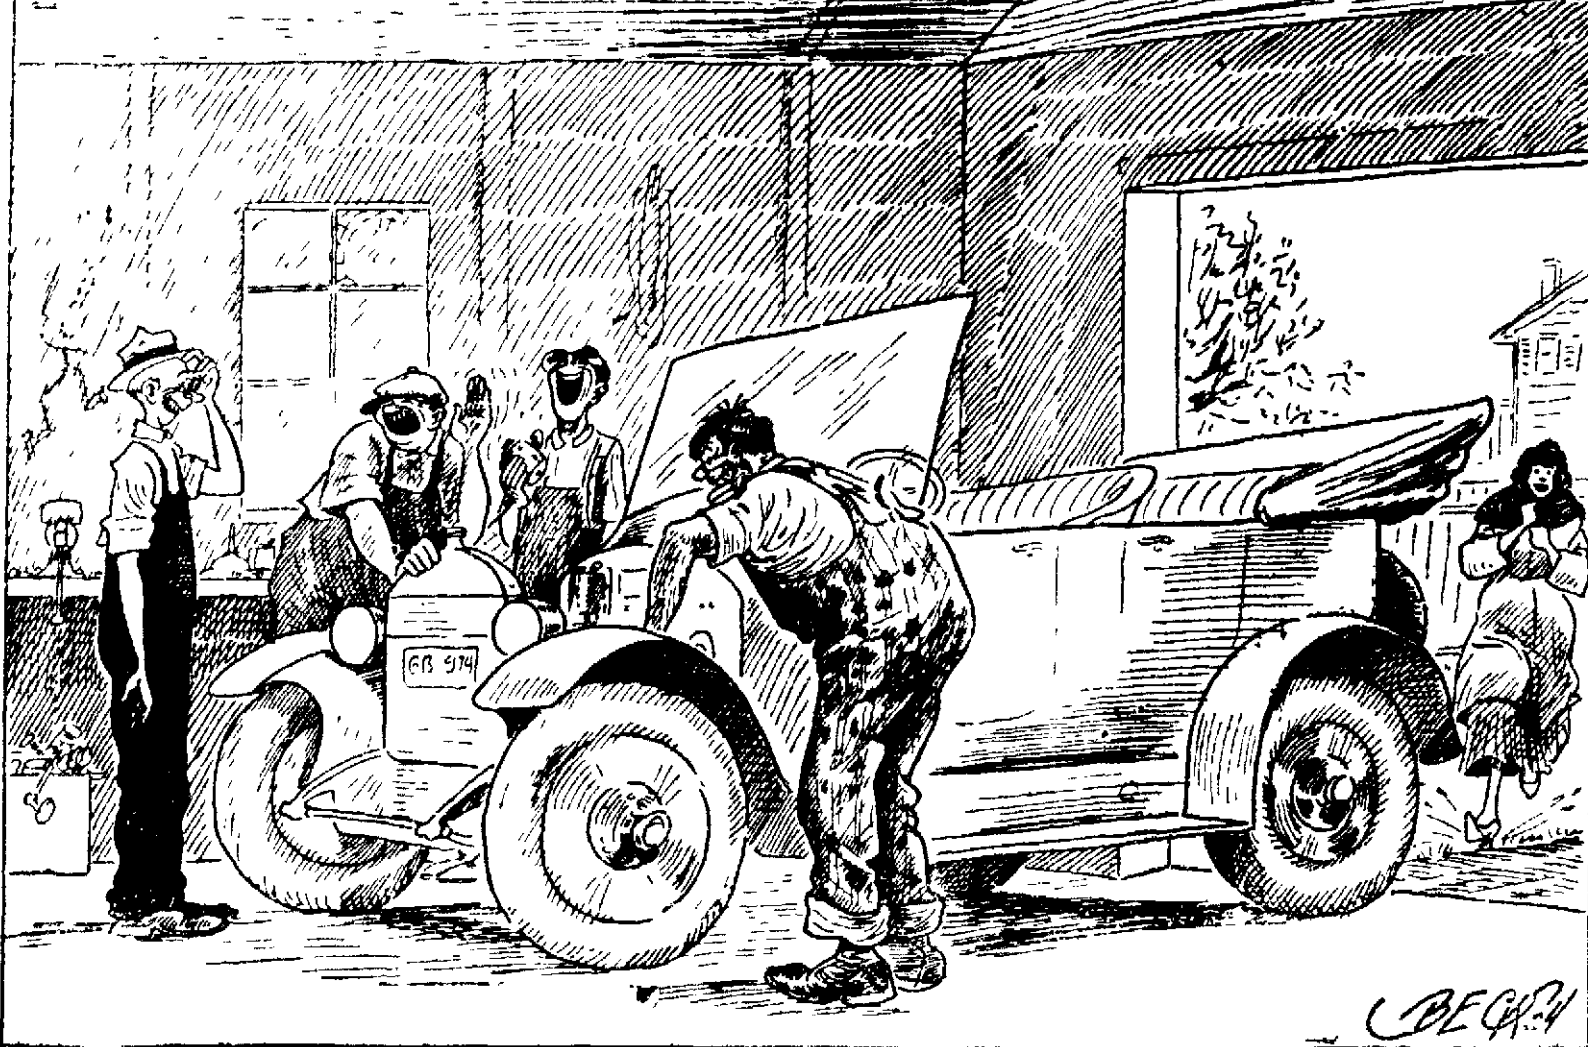

"Six cylinder cars are plenty this year. The new cars serve to emphasize the steady forward trend of the six-cylinder models. Summarizing the present state with that of 1920, the totals are as follows: 1920—148 makes, consisting of 52 fours, 88 sixes, 1 eights, and three twelves; 1924—104 makes, consisting of 24 fours, 68 sixes, 10 eights (V-type), and two eights (straight in a row.)"

RAIL AND AUTO TRAVEL COMPARED

A census of the railroads' rolling stock for all of the steam roads in the United States shows, at the close of 1923, 2,400,000 freight cars, 57,000 passenger cars, and 68,000 locomotives of all types. There are therefore more than five automobiles for every freight car, passenger car and locomotive in the United States. Motor trucks also carry about an eighth of the tonnage carried by the railroads, while passenger automobiles transport a many passengers as trains.

The eighteenth annual automobile show held by French manufacturers in Paris during October and November was one of the most successful exhibits in the industry's history, according to the Firestone News Service.

ANNUAL REPORT OF NASH MOTORS

Net profit of $9,280,032.19 were earned by The Nash Motors Company during the fiscal year 1923. This is brought out in the company's annual financial report to stockholders, just issued over the signature of C. W. Nash, president. The figures quoted are net profits, after deducting all expenses, including reserves, depreciation and state and federal taxes. The company has a reserve of $21,692,250.77 cash on hand, in banks and in government securities and it owes no bank a dollar on money borrowed.

After citing the financial condition of the company and pointing out that its inventory was turned twelve times during the past fiscal year, Mr. Nash says: "We wish to point out to our stockholders that in our judgment there never was gathered together a working force consisting of more than five thousand people where greater loyalty, cooperation and efficiency exist than in the organization of your company, and to the five thousand people is due a large part of the credit for the splendid success of the past year."

Mr. Nash's report to Nash Motors stockholders follows:

The fiscal year of your company which closed November 30, 1923, has been the most successful in its history. The operation of the plants was on a fairly even schedule of production and ran practically to their capacity during the major portion of the year with a production of more than 50,000 cars and trucks. The volume of business in dollars and cents was above fifty-eight million dollars.

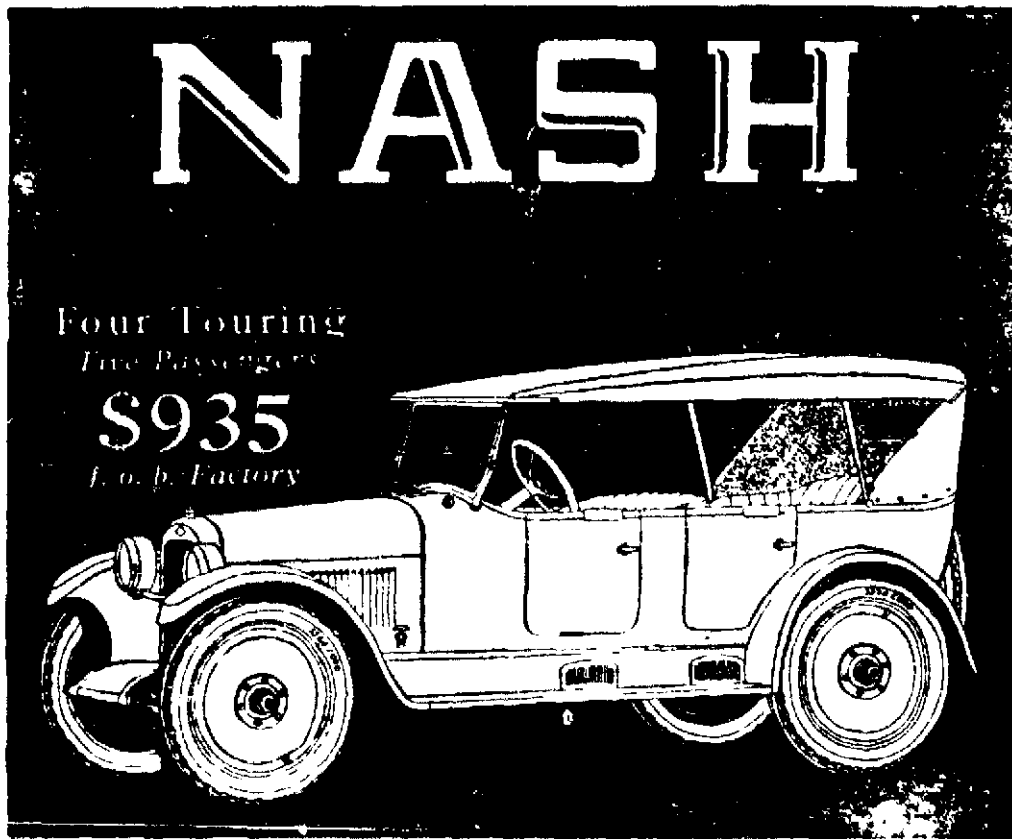

It was very gratifying indeed that the company was able to give steady employment throughout the year to an average of over 7000 employees. The improvement in the working efficiency of our organization is evidenced by the fact that the plants increased their production 38.5% with an increase of only 29% in the number of employees.

AT ONLY 80 YEARS OLD

On July 4, 1894, there was only one practical automobile in the world. The following year the first automobile race was run near Chicago. In 1896, England limited road motor vehicles to four miles an hour. In 1923 the first motor vehicle crossed the American continent, a curved dash automobile,

ALUMINUM PAINT BENEFITS

The Bureau of Standards at Washington says aluminum paint applied to the under side of an automobile top will greatly reduce the amount of heat absorbed from the sun and radiated on the under side. The temperature inside the car will be more nearly that found in natural shade, as under a tree.

The Facts Favor this Four! An hour's demonstration and inspection of this Touring model will prove it decisively finer than any car of similar price. There's a lively evenness and briskness to the power-flow that matches costly cars of more than four cylinders. Yet it is exceptionally thrifty in gas and oil. An extra tubular cross-member holds car rigidly against road-strain and twist. It's worth a special trip to view the features of this Nash model.

Forecasting A Tremendous Spring Demand

More Ford cars and trucks were produced last year than the previous year, an increase of over 50 per cent.

In spite of this tremendous increase in production, it was impossible to meet delivery requirements during the spring and summer months when orders for 350,000 Ford Cars and Trucks could not be filled.

This year winter buying for immediate delivery has been more active than ever before—and in addition 200,000 orders have already been booked through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan for spring delivery.

These facts clearly indicate that the demand during this spring and summer will be far greater than ever, and that orders should be placed immediately with Ford Dealers as a means of protection against delay in securing your Ford Car or Truck or Fordson Tractor.

FORD HAS RECORD PRODUCTION

A total of 2,204,488 transportation units produced in all plants for 1923 exceeds by 775,052 the previous record year of 1922. The space of the last three months, during which 577,953 units were made is being maintained, and may shortly be increased. All indications point to 1924 as another record-making year.

United States Assembly Plants and buyers in the United States and South America continue to constitute the greatest Ford market. Plants in the country turned out 1,315,485 Ford cars and trucks as against 1,175,474 in Foreign Assembly Branches, including Canada. Greatly improved business conditions are expected in Europe this spring. The improvement already is showing in a flood of orders.

During the year, 7,825 Lincoln cars were produced.

Agriculture and industries were provided with 101,898 tractors during the year as against 68,985 in 1922. This is regarded as very significant in showing a greater stability in farm finances.

The production of more than 2,200,000 automobiles in one year is probably the greatest feat in manufacturing ever accomplished, especially since the Ford Motor Company itself controls the complete manufacture and raw material supplies for a large proportion of everything which goes into the make-up of its products.

NEW PROSPECTS ARE PUZZLED

ST. LOUIS.—The prospective buyer of automobiles in the year 1924 has some very interesting things before him. In the mechanical sense, there are several designs of four wheel brakes. There are several designs of the two-wheel brake in service and emergency. There are many new ideas in body designs. Many new things in steering, gear shift, cardation, instrument equipment and so on. Mechanical features are not alone to be considered.

Business conditions and elements that may have just as much effect on the car-satisfaction of the car owner, as the mechanical car features are to be just as carefully considered.

What about the trading allowance, first of all? The trading allowance that is included in the list price of an automobile makes a jettison list price. It is made up in that form for the sole and express purpose of permitting a dealer to make an exchange in a trade for an old car. And when the man who pays cash buys the same car he pays a penalty for it. One caution is for the prospective purchaser to be careful to compare the actual values of the new cars with their list prices and carefully weigh the significance contained in the allowance that an old car is to be traded.

Nineteen per cent of the owners of old cars know when they are being given an excessive amount for their old car in a trade.

Therefore, they also have opportunity of knowing whether they are buying a new car with full value represented in its list price.

Again the prospective purchaser should carefully consider the record of the dealer from whom he is going to buy the car. Is the dealer one in whom he can have confidence? How does that dealer handle the used car department of his business?

It is imperative that the automothe dealer shall make a profit in every department of his business. Just the same as in any other business, profit is essential to remain in business. If the used car department is operating at a heavy loss, is it not fair to believe that in some other department, the dealer will have to make enough profit to cover that loss? The buyer of cars from such a dealer is going to help pay that used car bill somewhere, or else the dealer goes out of business unable to absorb his losses. The car becomes an orphan and the owner is at the mercy of independent and neighborhood repair shops.

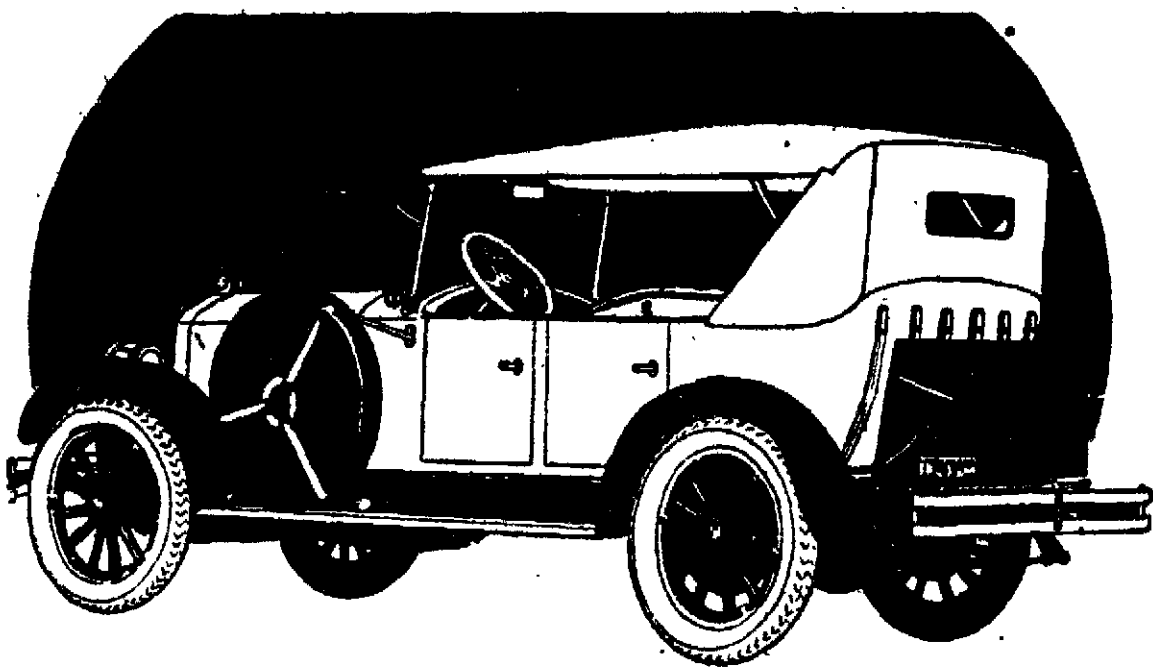

What has been the history of the dealer in business? Has he been successful? Or has he handled first one car, then another and another, until the list is like an old roster of the industry? What is the reputation of his maintenance department?

All of these are vital things to consider when the prospective purchaser is making his decision. They should be considered before ever looking at a car. The outside appearance of an automobile in an automobile show or store, has nothing whatever to do with the personal satisfaction that the owner may have in the operation of that car after taking it out of its show space. The dealer, the salesman, the house policies, his financial stability, his treatment of its customers, its maintenance department, have everything to do with the car-satisfaction.

The prospective purchaser who makes his selection on the basis of a large allowance for the old car, cannot intelligently buy and take into consideration, the elements that will determine his own best interests.

How to Reach 6,000 Lima "Prospects" Who Do Not Own Automobiles

In Lima, according to the latest official estimate, there are 14,000 families.

Of these approximately 8,000 own or operate automobiles.

Of the remaining 6,000 many thousands are financially able to own automobiles—they need merely to be "sold."

The outstanding means of approach and sale to these people is The Lima News, the directory and guide of the great majority of Lima buyers—a fact proved by the year-in, year-out leadership of The Lima News among Lima newspapers in total advertising printed.

With a circulation of 17,000—approximately 70,000 daily readers—The Lima News reaches the great majority of able and willing to buy consumers in Lima.

That automobile advertisers recognize the exceptional "pull" of News advertising is proved by its leadership in automobile advertising.

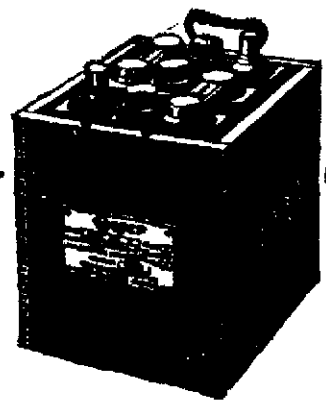

The figures for 1923 show that The News printed 34,320 inches of automotive advertising as against 21,641 printed by The Republican-Gazette.

FACTS AND FIGURES ABOUT THE AUTOMOTIVE INDUSTRY

MOTOR TRUCK IS GREAT AID

"Efforts to legislate motor truck out of existence are only attempts to slacken progress and are doomed to meet the defeat that has been the end of all retrogressive movements," declared W. A. Day, president and general manager of the General Motor Truck company, when discussing proposed laws that would hamper motor trucking.

"Motor trucks are here to stay," continued Mr. Day. "They are not only a big factor in the distribution of goods, but they are also a big factor in the economy of the country. They are the only means of transporting goods in large quantities at a low cost. They are the only means of transporting goods in large quantities at a low cost. They are the only means of transporting goods in large quantities at a low cost."

No one contends to deny that motor trucks are filling a necessary need. The one complaint voiced is that they tend to injure roads. That was true a number of years ago. At that time the correct distribution of weight was not as scientifically determined by truck manufacturers; tire making had not progressed as far; there was a tendency to overload, and road building was virtually in an experimental stage.

"Today conditions are different. Trucks are made to carry loads without injury to roads or mechanism. The introduction of the tractor-truck has solved the proper weight distribution over a sufficient number of wheels to carry the heaviest load. In fact the tractor-truck has been one of the greatest advances in motor transportation."

"Build roads to withstand the present day requirements, not those of 10 years ago, and there will be no cause to complain against motor trucks."

AKRON, O. — Great prominence was given to several tire manufacturers to the display of the new balloon type tire at the Eighteenth Annual French Automobile Show held in Paris at the Grand Palais.

One concern mounted three chairs on a revolving turntable. One seat equipped with the regular cord type and the third with the new balloon casing. Visitors thus received first hand experience of the comparison in comfort.

More than thirty different makes of European cars were on display, according to a Firestone tire representative, and more interest is said to have been manifested on the part of the public than at any previous exhibit of the kind in France.

"The several extensive Australian tire manufacturers are said to find keen competition from foreign makes. In Adelaide a French tire casing is now reported as the most popular, with the tires of an American make a close second."

POLISHING REFLECTORS

To polish reflectors, the chemist should first be used with rough dampened with alcohol to remove spots or light tarnish, suggests the Automobile Direct. After wiping with a second damp cloth, but with dry cloth to give a high polish. In polishing use a rotary motion, but do not press hard. The main feature to bear in mind is to avoid scratches or marks in the reflector. These will defeat the beam of light reflected.

PAIGE IS GIVEN GREAT TEST

Our forefathers came across the continent in covered wagons, rounded tops, heavy, slow, and as we walked on foot in the path of the wagon, we were in a part of the fabulous tales of the gold strikes.

Today it isn't gold but oil that promises the fabulous riches. Covered wagons are things of the past, as was transportation by water, despite the fact that the Panama Canal cut off a greater part of the journey.

It is the automobile now that is the fastest means of conveyance to the riches, according to Mr. E. S. Wagner, formerly of Fargo, North Dakota. He tells a dramatic story of how he sped to the Pacific Coast in answer to a call from his old friend, Thomas Turner, who had discovered an oil field not far from Los Angeles.

"I joined forces with my old friend and waited the outcome of my financial venture," said Wagner. "It was a short wait. I received a fifty word message in a few days that Turner had struck oil."

"There was nothing left for me to do but get to California as fast as was possible. Travel by automobile appealed to me particularly. I bought a new Paige and hired a driver. It was the greatest test of speed and endurance ever given an absolutely new motor car."

The first day we drove 525 miles. The next three days we covered 295 miles, 305 miles, and 410 miles respectively over and thru the Rocky Mountains.

"The next day we drove straight thru, riding for a little over twenty hours we covered 619 miles. A few hours sleep and the big Paige again started cutting up the miles. An hour's rest was taken at noon. At six o'clock that night we rolled into Los Angeles having covered 848 miles on the last lap."

"Our total mileage was 3105 miles. Eighty-six hours was our actual driving time. The elapsed time did not double the driving time. Our total expense was $75.33 for both the driver and myself as well as the Paige. Our average speed was 36 miles per hour. Our gasoline consumption was one gallon every fifteen hours."

AKRON, O. — The Firestone Balloon Tire, the latest development in cord casing, better traction and much greater road resistance under all conditions. Enveloping road obstacles, adjusting themselves to road irregularities and gripping the pavement surface, the balloon tire, besides being far more comfortable to the passenger and better for the car's mechanism, is almost impervious to skid.

TRANSMISSION ON CHANDLER SIMPLE

How the woman motorist, knowing nothing about the mechanism of an automobile, regards advances in mechanical construction is interestingly shown in prize-winning letters submitted to the Chandler distributor at San Francisco.

During Traffic Transmission week, when Chandler's new, crash-proof gearbox was demonstrated to everyone who would accept the company's invitation to ride, the distributor offered cash prizes to the passengers who would best describe the merits of the device.

Most of the contestants were men; they went into the mechanical construction of the transmission in detail. Not so the women—they wrote of the effects of the new transmission, and their pleasure and comfort in driving a car free from the clashing and the uncertainties of the old-fashioned sliding gear transmission.

Mrs. John E. Carr, of Palo Alto, Calif., was adjudged the winner among the women contestants. "Being a woman, I do not know anything about a motor car's insides," wrote Mrs. Carr. "What I know, I do not want to have to learn. I know this: I was not the least bit fazed when driving the Chandler with the Traffic Transmission. I just drove it, that's all. There is really nothing to it."

"The first thing I noticed was how easily it operated. Only a slight pressure was needed to move the lever. The simplicity of it was positively fascinating. Then the salesman told me to shift from back back to forward. I did that and then from forward to back. It was just as easy as going up."

"Then we went down a long steep hill and I found that I could completely control the speed of the car by shifting gears and was not obliged to tire myself holding down a foot brake."

"I suppose that the men find the principle of this Traffic Transmission very interesting. My husband and his father discussed it for an hour. What they said was all Greek to me."

"The thing that impressed me was this: That operating the new Chandler with the Traffic Transmission is so simple and easy and requires so little effort, either mental or physical, that a woman finds herself free to devote all her attention to the problems of the traffic. He is relieved of that feeling of suspense."

Built before "horseless carriages" were even dreamed of, the Deacon's "One Horse Shay" found in rhyme by Oliver Wendell Holmes, today is the ideal to which the automobile industry is striving. Automobile manufacturers hope sometime to build cars so well balanced, and the wear on each individual part so carefully calculated, that the cars will run for many years without the replacement of even the smallest part.

"Of course, the perfection of the 'One Horse Shay,' which ran for more than a generation without repairs, is mostly the license of literature and will never be fully realized. But each year the automotive industry is coming nearer to it thru intensive scientific study."

APPEAL IN DAMAGE SUIT IS FILED BY WOMAN

CINCINNATI—An appeal was filed in the United States circuit court of appeals here Saturday by Bessie Napier from the verdict of a federal jury at Cleveland dismissing her suit for $30,000 damages against the Northwestern Ohio Railway Co. for the killing of her husband, Charles Napier, when a train struck his automobile at Lakeside, August 16, 1920.

OAKLAND FINISH IS MORE PERMANENT

The Oakland Motor Car company is now in full swing on the new special permanent satin finish, perfected at the Oakland factories. Greater durability, fewer washings and low cost service on refinishing are some of the advantages claimed over the regulation varnish job.

Fewer washings of the cars are necessary due to the fact that the ordinary dirt, mud, grime or alkali dust can be wiped off with a dry cloth. If the car is dented or marred by accident, the damaged spot can be quickly "blended out" and refinished with a spray gun at the Oakland service stations, thereby eliminating the necessity of doing a whole section over—something that is required on the varnish job. It is also claimed that the older the car becomes, the glossier the finish, which is brought out by rubbing with a cloth or other soft material.

This special finish on the Oakland cars has been subjected to the terrific heat of the southern states, the dank sea air in our coast towns and even to the chemical action of a powerful fire extinguisher without harming the finish in the least.

Details of the application of the special satin permanent finish and its features were explained by Russell Rogers, manager of the paint department of the Oakland factory, at a recent meeting of the Detroit chapter, Society of Automotive Engineers. "The new finish," he said, "is a substitute for color, ground color, color varnish and finishing varnish."

Practically all truck tires used in Argentina are of the solid type. So are many automobile tires. Road conditions, except in the larger city's business districts, are still very bad.

Cushion type truck tires are having an increasing demand in France. Many calls are also reported from England, and London's principal omnibus concern it is said to have tried them out with satisfaction.

Alaska has approximately 500 cars and 275 trucks on its highways at this date; the Canary Islands, 1,500 and 250 respectively; Egypt, 4,000 and 450; Uruguay, 13,000 and 500; Liberia only 25 automobiles, according to 1920 returns, the latest figures available.

THREE WIVES WIN SEPARATION

Judge Becker Awards Decrees in Court Saturday

Decrees were granted in three divorce cases heard Saturday by Judge Fred C. Becker.

Testimony given by Mrs. Caddie C. Deckard, telling of finding another woman with Charles L. Deckard in his barber shop, won her a decree. He told her to go home and mind her own affairs, a witness declared. Instead the wife attended a moving picture show.

The wife asserted that her mate cursed in the home and left her on frequent occasions. She also told of putting up her own money for furniture and of an addiction for strong drink enjoyed by the defendant.

Mrs. Marie LaFortune, nee Daniels, was granted a divorce from Joachim LaFortune, cabinet maker. She was forced to live in a small room, partitioned off from LaFortune's shop in an alley back of Memorial hall, she told the court. The defendant is alleged to have declared he could not afford to live in better quarters.

The advent of the World War was the wedge that divided Mrs. Eva Miller and Edward Miller, engineer at the Children's home, she testified in court Saturday.

Miller enlisted and marched away to war. He returned after nearly two years, largely spent in France. He would not work to support the plaintiff or their four children and finally left her, she said, declaring he did not want to live with her. No reason was assigned for his conduct.

The wife assumed the burden of bread winner, she told the court. Judge Becker granted a decree and ordered that $12 a week be paid by the defendant toward support of the children, who are living in the children's home.

ABE MARTIN

On Ideal Husbands

AN IDEAL HUSBAND AN WIFE

After three hundred years of American civilization, after the clover huller has been put to rest, after living through the air is a reality, after burn-out lightning is an old story, after electioneering statesmen have direct vote of the people, and after driving liquor from the cellars of the poor the problem of what constitutes an ideal husband, is right where it was in 1871. Sunday newspaper writers are still making the money with the subject of ideal husbands. It is still nothing new, but it is still something to write about. Husbands like auto, are all good, some for a few months, some for a few years, and some for life. If they are treated right on all did along. We've had lots of ideal husbands pointed out to us in the past. It looked like they'd all clean through a home talent show, or be satisfied with crackers, and milk. Show us an ideal husband and we'll show you a heavy chinned woman. We've seen the lovin' husband that couldn't keep his hands off his wife, and we've seen the indulgent husband that lavished money on his jewel.

BEAUTY is the magnet which draws all eyes—and back of beauty—Health—working silently. Red blood tingling through the veins;—the glow of youth in the cheeks;—the spring of eagerness, of vim, of vitality in the walk;—the ever graceful air, unrestrained by care or worry. All the charms of beauty. All the works of health.

Men are fascinated by the charms of beauty. Women gaze with envy, secretly jealous, perhaps—wondering—hoping—praying for that attractiveness that is not theirs.

But why the wondering—the hoping—the praying for that craved attractiveness—that beauty. Good looks is the barometer of one's condition. Good health radiates beauty. S. S. S. purifies the blood—creates new red blood cells—rids the system of impurities which make beauty and attractiveness impossible. As women to attract must radiate health so must they keep their systems free from impurities and their red blood cells ever increasing. S. S. S. does both.

S. S. S. since 1828, has been ridding the system of impurities—pimples, blackheads, boils, eczema and rheumatism—building red blood cells—aiding women to be attractive by radiating health. S. S. S. is made of carefully selected herbs and barks, scientifically prepared and proportioned. All good drug stores carry S. S. S. It is more economical to purchase the large size bottle.

For The Sake of The Family
Read Every Word

The most important item of comfort and convenience to the home owner and home builder, is the heating system. Good heating means a home—poor heating means so much lumber, plaster and nails, called a house.

It is vitally important to you to know that the Round Oak Heating Company is located at 120 S. Union St. We are in a position to satisfy your every heating requirement, and to serve you promptly, economically and efficiently. Yours is the benefit of Free Engineering Service, careful buying, and systemized labor and installation.

ROUND OAK HEATING SYSTEM

If your home is not so constructed as to be approved by the Engineering Department of the Round Oak Folks, we cannot install a Round Oak for you at any price. This means a quality heating system, scientifically correct, when you contract for a Round Oak.

We can offer you complete installation service in a way that cannot possibly interfere with your present money plans.

It would be a genuine pleasure for us to co-operate with you in any way possible. A phone call (Main 7121) will bring our representative to your home, quite without obligation on your part. Command us to serve.

"HATS, LIKE WEARERS, HAVE SOULS"

ANNE ROWELL, WEARING A "HAT WITH A SOUL"

By MARIAN HALE

NEW YORK. — (Special.) —

Perhaps you didn't know a hat has a soul.

That may be because you never met Anne Rowell of New York,

Paris, London and any old place where women have heads and keep hats on them.

She claims it was this discovery of hers that raised her within five years from shop girl in a San Francisco millinery store to buyer for more than 50 wholesale millinery houses.

She goes to Europe and follows up every trail that leads to a hat—the shops, streets, theatres, churches and even the little remote towns where the peasants make their own styles.

On her return she puts her hats on display in her hat salons and invites the wholesalers to call one at a time with their designers and their selling force. She gives them all a talk, and lets them copy ten of her hats. By the time 50 customers of her style syndicate have seen her ideas it is time to make another trip to Europe.

"It's a pleasure," she smiles, "and very easy to get these ideas—all because I see the soul of the hat. Most buyers see a price tag or the new trimming only."

"I keep my eyes open to the beauty in every form of adornment. I have no interest in flowers or quills, except as they contribute to beauty.

Besides, looking for the soul of the hat and the instructive thing which makes it what it is, I think of the American women who are to wear

my hats and try to bring about a beautiful balance between them.

This is the only talent I have and I am trying to make the most of it."

It is her fixed conviction that hats should be individual always, that since no two faces are ever exactly alike, neither should two hats ever be identical.

The Elks Male Chorus, assisted by Mrs. F. E. Gooding, soprano, Mrs. R. O. Woods, contralto and Miss Violet Bradley, pianist, will give a musical at the Market St. Presby-terian church, Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock.

The following program will be given:

Prelude—Colonial Dances—Dunn

Hymn—Day Is Dying in the West—Dunn

Invocation

Scripture reading—Van DeWater

Chorus—Sunset—Van DeWater

Contralto to Solo—Like As the Heart Desires—Allister

Offertory—Chorus—Bugle Song

Soprano Solo—Dudley Buck

Fly—Whither Shall I—Gilchrist

Chorus—What From Vengeance—Dunn

Solo for Piano—Dudist die Ruh—Schubert

Chorus—Pilgrims Chorus—Dr. Parry

Obligato Solo—Don John

MANY LUNCHEON EVENTS ENLIVEN
WEEK SOCIALLY

Pleasing Climax Is One O'Clock Party Given Saturday By Mrs. W. L. Parmenter for Mrs. E. B. Clark

Lima Hostesses are Kept Busy With Numerous Affairs Given In Compliment to Visitors From Out of Town

"MILADY" of society was extremely busy during the past week attending social affairs given in compliment to out-of-town visitors. Most every day there were luncheon engagements to be kept or bridge parties to be attended. Among the honored ones was Mrs. E. B. Clark of Schenectady, N. Y., who is a guest at the W. L. Reid home, W. Market-st. Mrs. Harold Seymour of Tenafly, N. J., who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Andrews, has also been complimented at several informal gatherings. A number of other out-of-town guests were in the city and paid pretty compliments at various parties.

Along with the social functions, there have been a number of club meetings. At these meetings, programs of a diversified nature, have been enjoyed.

Coming as an attractive climax to the week's parties was the one o'clock luncheon-bridge on Saturday, given by Mrs. W. L. Parmenter at her home, 803 W. Market-st. Mrs. Parmenter entertained in compliment to Mrs. E. B. Clark of Schenectady.

The luncheon tables were artistic in their appointments of green, spring flowers being used on each of the small tables. Place cards and nut baskets were of green and white.

HER NEW ROLE IS OFF STAGE

BELLE BENNETT

SAN FRANCISCO.—(Special)—Federal officials have cast Belle Bennett, actress, in her most unpleasant role.

Complications, such as have figured in few of her plays, now enter into a maze of charges and allegations. John Geller, a film producer, claims her as his wife. Geller, while in the navy, is alleged to have sent allotment checks to the actress and she is said to have illegally collected them.

Whether or not they actually were married is one matter in dispute and a five-year contract to live with Geller as his wife enters into the case.

Miss Bennett says she never saw the checks and denies living with him as his wife.

The Women's Relief Corps will meet at Memorial Hall for an afternoon of sewing on Tuesday. Dinner will be served. The members of the G. A. R., and a regular business meeting of the Relief corps will follow.

Members of the Chi Sigma sorority will meet Wednesday evening with Mrs. Frank Riepenhoff, 8. Main-st.

Miss Gertrude Boose will preside at a six o'clock supper at her home, 1024 W. Market-st., Sunday evening.

Mrs. E. N. Zellitz, Shawnee, will entertain informally at her home on Monday with a one o'clock luncheon-bridge, complementing Mrs. E. B. Clark of Schenectady, N. Y., the guest of Mrs. W. L. Reid, Monday evening. Mrs. T. B. Greene is entertaining a small group of friends for Mrs. Clark.

Each 15-cent package of "Diamond Dyes" contains directions so simple any woman can dye or tint any old, worn, faded thing new, even if she has never dyed before. Choose any color at drug store.

Of interest is the fact that Mrs. Mack Altschul of the Hotel Baur, now in Los Angeles, has been engaged one of the first violinists with the Women's Symphony Orchestra of Los Angeles. This is one of the leading musical organizations of the country, numbering seventy-five women musicians.

Henry Schoenfeld, one of the leading musical artists on the Pacific coast, is the director of the orchestra. The next appearance of the orchestra will be at the Philharmonic Auditorium in Los Angeles on February 26.

Mrs. Altschul, who was before her marriage, Miss Lena Rudy, is also studying cello with Ossip Giakin, the famous Russian cellist, wintering in California.

Members of the Armistice club were entertained at the home of Mrs. A. D. Pence, Superior Court, Thursday evening. The affair was planned in honor of Mrs. Pence, celebrating her birthday anniversary.

Cards were enjoyed and a course luncheon was served.

Guests other than the club members were Mrs. Iva Gilmore of Fostoria, and Mrs. Marie DeWeese of Los Angeles, Cal.

Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Moyer, of S. Pine-st., have as their guest, Victor Moyer of Reading, Pa., Mr. Moyer's brother.

Members of the L. Y. L. club were entertained by Miss Eunice Stone, W. North-st., Wednesday evening. Mah Jongg was played and interesting contests held. A two-course luncheon was served at a late hour.

Those present were Misses Pauline Jenner, Ruth Leckelner, Isabelle Blodgett, Bernice Bruns, Marguerite Reah and the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Don White, N. Metcalf-st., have as their guest, Mrs. White's mother, Mrs. George H. Kilworth, of New Haven, Ind.

Miss Ruth Melvain, W. Spring-st., and Miss Beatrice Goebel, N. Metcalf-st., leave Sunday for an extended visit in Los Angeles, Cal.

Mrs. Ida Kemp, E. North-st., will be hostess to the members of the Keola club at her home, Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Clevenger, W. High-st., have departed for Toledo to make their future home.

Members of the Round Table will meet Monday afternoon with Mrs. J. C. Kelly, E. Franklin-st. Mrs. R. A. Buchanan will have the magazine article and there will be a paper read on "World Peace."

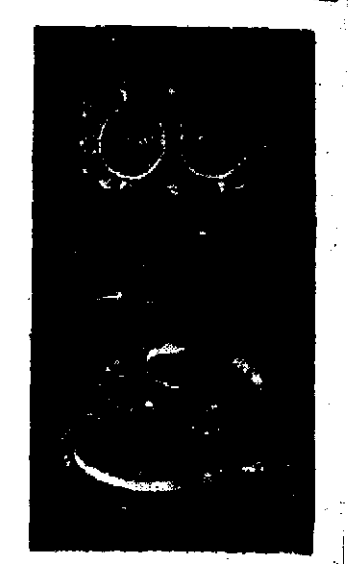

Roll call will be answered with quotations from Longfellow.

Miss Mildred Evans, W. Wayne-st., will entertain the members of the Beta chapter of the Lambda Nu Sigma sorority at her home, Monday evening.

Mrs. Len Helsel, S. Metcalf-st., welcomed the members of the Mystery club at her home Thursday afternoon. After an informal afternoon, a two-course luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Ruth Schofield.

The club will meet in two weeks with Mrs. W. A. Spencer, S. Metcalf-st.

Beauty

A Gleamy Mass of Hair
35c "Danderine" does Wonders for Any Girl's Hair

Girls! Try this! When combing and dressing your hair, just moisten your hair brush with a little "Danderine" and brush it through your hair. The effect is startling! You can do your hair up immediately and it will appear twice as thick and heavy—a mass of gleamy hair, sparkling with life and possessing that incomparable softness, freshness and luxuriance.

While beautifying the hair "Danderine" is also toning and stimulating each single hair to grow thick, long and strong. Hair alone falling out and dandruff disappears. Get a bottle of delightful, refreshing "Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter and just see how healthy and youthful your hair becomes.

SUSIE SMART'S ADVICE

Dear Miss Smart:

I AM writing this for my sister, who is in high school and is 17 years old. She is five feet, six inches tall and weighs 135 pounds. How much should she weigh? Do they serve the same food? Do they serve the same food?

She is president of the Girls' Athletic Club. Should they all have uniforms? What other officers should they have besides a president? Should she have brown hair and eyes. What color can she wear best?

I am in and in the seventh grade. How is my English and writing? What is the meaning of the following: Beulah, Ruth, Avonelle, Evelyn, Yvonne and Evelyn?

Thanking you in advance, I am

A BROWN-EYED SISTER.

Y OUR sister should weigh about 120 pounds.

Perhaps the best thing to do would be to go to the different hotels in the city and consult the manager. If he or head-waitress, whichever one is the proper person, tell him or her the number you expect to have, whether you want a luncheon, tea or dinner menu and ask the cost. After you decide which place you wish to entertain, plan the menu, letting the chef offer suggestions and you telling him what you would prefer to have. You can either arrange the table or let the people at the hotel do it, but if you wish to have elaborate decorations, perhaps it is better to arrange the table yourself. You can, of course, have a social time at the hotel, before or after the serving of the luncheon, tea or dinner.

Not necessarily. I would suggest a secretary, treasurer and chairman of the entertainment committee.

The various shades of blue would be coming to her, as well as all shades of brown. The bright shades such as green, purple and the new shade of "sunset" would also be becoming.

Your writing is very good and you write an excellent letter for one in the seventh grade.

Beulah means strange; Avonelle, means brilliant; Ruth means beauty; Mildred means mild threnator; Evelyn means life; and Yvonne means good.

Dear Susie:

As we are readers of your column and delight in reading it, we would like for you to answer or solve some problems for us.

We are two girls ages eleven and twelve and are in love with two boys who admire us very much. Do you think we are too young to be in love? Would you call it "puppy" love?

They come to see us at least three times a week or when there is anything going on, they come and get us. Do you think that is too often?

We have had our pictures taken. Do you think it would be a wonderful plan if we would give them each one?

In what grades should girls of these ages be in?

How old is Mary Pickford?

How is our writing?

Thank you.

LEAP YEAR.

I certainly think you two children are too young to be in love, or even to think of caring for the boys.

And I would hardly call it a case of "puppy" love, because a strong case of "admiration" between two young people, at least in their teens, is often referred to as "puppy" love.

Yes, indeed, that is too often. I can't understand your parents allowing it.

No.

You should be in the fifth and sixth grades.

Mary Pickford, the popular film star, is 31 years of age.

Good.

Dear Miss Smart:

Would you be kind enough to give me Douglas Fairbank, Jr.'s address? How old is he? Does he live with his father?

How is my writing?

CUPID, 1924.

As far as I know, Doug, Jr., resides with his father at "Pickfair," Hollywood, Cal. At least, you can address a letter there and I feel sure it will be forwarded to the proper address. If he does not reside there, he is 15 years of age.

Very good.

EX-MAYOR ADMITS TAKING DRINK AND LIKES POKER

TOLEDO—Under cross examination by Assistant District Attorney Miles Evans, Adolph Unger, former Tiffin mayor, who with 24 other Tiffin residents is on trial for conspiring to violate the prohibition law, admitted Saturday that he occasionally took a drink and that he enjoyed a poker game.

He denied having been intoxicated at the home of John Friedman, Tiffin, where he admitted taking a drink to celebrate his election as mayor in 1921.

He denied that he had taken money for promised protection to bootleggers.

The case will be taken up again Tuesday morning and is expected to be given to the jury Tuesday night or Wednesday morning.

JUST LIKE 'EM

Woman's equality, yes, but also woman's prerogative, as Miss Lettie Fields, 17-year-old San Francisco girl, demonstrated when she changed her mind at the altar. However, she did not change it until after the ceremony, just as the bride couple were leaving the church door. So she had to go to court to have the marriage annulled and to win back her maiden name.

OTTAWA SOCIETY

The past week has been a busy one in the society, each hostess, it would seem, striving to excel to have a social event scheduled before the beginning of Lent, just a little way off.

Many social events of importance will be crowded into the coming week because of the near approach of the Lenten season.

Not only club meetings of pretentious arrangement, but gatherings of friends, just on pleasure bent, are in the planning, and the coming week promises to be filled with social interest.

Many clubs and societies will give up all meetings during Lent, gatherings to be even more glorious after the passing of this time of sack cloth and ashes.

Mrs. Stuart Robenault entertained the Study club, Monday night, the program beginning with an open discussion on the Bok peace plan. Mrs. George J. Keinath gave a paper on

MUSICAL COMEDY AND VAUDEVILLE MONOPOLIZE STAGES

VARIETY BILLS AND GIRL SHOWS OCCUPY SPOTLIGHT LOCALLY

Faurot Offers Usual Programs and Pythian Follies, Orpheum Brings Solador's Entertainers Here for Coming Week

BY CADJE

WHILE there are no outside road attractions of unusual prominence coming to Lima this week, theatregoers here will not want for diversified entertainment.

The Faurot's vaudeville bills will be broken into during the week with the "Pythian Follies of 1924," a home talent production, and the New Orpheum will present an unusual type of musical comedy show.

The current vaudeville program at the Faurot concludes with today's performances. The bill includes the Kiyose Nakae company of Japanese, experts in the jitsu, who have been pleasing patrons for several days. The house will be dark Monday night. Then come two days of the "Follies," said to be an unusually fine show of its kind, replete with a variety of popular entertainment novelties. Thursday will see resumption of vaudeville with several highly touted numbers arranged.

Starting with today's matinee the New Orpheum offers Solador's Brinkley Girls, bringing comedians, singers, girls, costumes and scenery typical of the musical comedy type of show but offering something distinctive in the line of comic opera of the lighter vein.

FAUROT MANAGEMENT BOOKS "THE MONSTER"

Glance Into Future Reveals Other Theatrical Gems On Way Toward Lima

BY CADJE

Joseph M. Gaites is sending his "The Monster" here. It is one of the latest crop of "mystery plays." It is rather strange that so far this season there has been opportunity to see about everything that is dependent on the stage from grand opera to cartoon comedy, but no mystery play.

Figuring from many angles there is considerable of a gap between opera and cartooning in the theater, but it is a fact that in the higher musical efforts Lima has been denied its fortune. From the Cleveland Orchestra, the San Carlo Opera company, the Boston Chorus to Barney Google, it is about as much diversity as the most exacting could wish.

But just think of the real merit of the musical and dramatic element that the Faurot has had after the more serious musical efforts of grand opera comes comic opera in its best shape thru the Wolfe Hopper and his excellent organization; then comes with the lighter style, and closely following "Blossom Time," the most important one, so far as music being connected with drama is concerned that has been presented in years, and "Caroline," a splendid effort in the same direction.

And there are those, perhaps in the majority, who favor the lighter variety of musical comedy, such as "The Passing Show," "Gally, Jones and Mary," and "Wildflower." All these we have seen in a season that has been highly complimentary to the Faurot management so far as among the most important revenue or musical, extravaganzas visiting this city is concerned.

And while a surfeit of comedy extends universally, there has been several very important offerings, such as "So This is London," "Abie's Irish Rose" and "The 1st Year," all three prime favorites. Even the student of the drama has not been left to his own solitude, for Mantel presented his famous "Shylock," and for problems plays, we've had "The Fool." In a season where traveling expenses are all but prohibitive, Lima has been favored with about all that could be expected, in the most optimistic.

LOOKING FORWARD

So in a short time, we are to have a chance at the much mooted and much discussed mystery play, "The Monster." We have been watching the southern papers for some time, I favor an independent opinion.

rather than the press agent stuff, and the play seems to be impressive to the reviewer generally. The Charleston, S. C. Chronicle says: "It's a weird mingling of myth and thriller." "The Monster," performed last night at the Academy of Music, with Craze and Wilber, its author, and Miss Suzanne Cahel, niece of the late Sarah Bernhardt, in the principal roles. In the language of another, an nervous woman has any business about the premises. . . . "The Monster" thus measures to the management's claims of amuse even while it thrills.

But these mystery plays, which once were known as melodrama, holding the center of the stage of wonder and thrill, have been decidedly scarce this season, but it will be a part of the year's program.

The balance of the theatrical season promises even more than the past good news to the theatregoer. The immediate offerings which will be seen before the flowers that bloom in the spring are "Tip She Goes," a musical comedy, big, pretentious, jazz and gaily. Al Johnson in Bamber, another comic style, only with the inimitable Johnson; "Red and the Canary," another mystery show; "Gingham Girl," a pretty thing with a fine reputation; return of "Blossom Time," welcome news and Ethel Barrymore, with others of course.

A star in Solador's bill, "The Brinkley Girls," is posing all week at the Orpheum.

"PYTHIAN FOLLIES" AT FAUROT THIS WEEK

Home Talent Production Will Show Tuesday and Wednesday Evenings

It is seldom that one finds as many good comedies and vaudeville acts in a local production as will be seen in the "Pythian Follies of 1924," which will be the offering at the Faurot Tuesday and Wednesday nights. Great care has been taken in the selection of the cast and it is a hard to be the best that has ever been gathered together for a local production.

The "Follies" will live up to its name inasmuch as it will offer a varied type of entertainment ranging from the selection of "Minstrelsy" to a burlesque of the popular type of mystery plays. There will also be a number of high class vaudeville acts and the production closes with a complete miniature musical comedy entitled, "Did You."

The cast which is the largest ever used in a local play, will include such well known entertainers as J. W. Beall, Dale Marshall, Clarence Cooper, James Kelley. The vocal quartet is headed by Happy Kook, Fern Clark, Eddie Stepien and George Williams. The "Follies" will be presented in two acts with special scenic effects and gorgeous costumes.

"SOLADOR'S BRINKLEY GIRLS" AT ORPHEUM

Musigirl Show of Comic Opera Type Comes Today for Week's Stay

"SOLADOR'S BRINKLEY GIRLS" is the musigirl attraction offered patrons of the New Orpheum for the week beginning with Sunday's matinee.

Manager Bob Shaw has received some excellent reports regarding this company and expects a repetition of the patronage enjoyed by the house during the last two weeks of Lew Kelly and Marshall Walker. It will be the first time this company has been seen in Lima.

While presenting the usual line of burlesque comedy, with plenty of girls, jokes and ludicrous situations, this week's show is heralded as something out of the ordinary. It approaches the comic opera vein, has a real musical score and genuine plot and offers on a smaller scale, of course, all the attractions of big musical extravaganzas.

The principals are billed trained entertainers, capable taking their place in the world of vaudeville or musical comedy, various specialties contributing to the variety of the show's entertainment.

Supporting the highly touted of principals is a chorus of which the advance agent tells compare favorably with any seen the Market-st. playhouse this season, in voice and comeliness as well. They also are well trained and sent a repertoire of catchy songs it is said. The scenery and costumes are described as being on a par with the rest of the show.

The management is advertising usual specialty performances of vaudeville with one show every night, noon starting today, and two performances nightly.

IT'S VARIETY WEEK ON LIMA'S MOVING PICTURE PROGRAM

WESTERN, CROOK AND SOCIETY PLAYS TO BID FOR PATRONS' FAVOR

"The Call of the Canyon" Shows at Quilna, "You Can't Fool Your Wife" at Majestic and "Eyes of the Forest" at Rialto

(BY GERTRUDE GILLHAM)

An unusually diversified program of cinema entertainment has been scheduled for the current week at local playhouses with western, society and crook dramas vying for first place.

"The Call of the Canyon," which opens this afternoon at the Quilna, has a double appeal for those who like society plays and virile western dramas. It is a story of New York jazz life and the Mojave Desert with most of the action taking place in the Arizona cattle country. Richard Dix, Lois Wilson and Marjorie Daw are the featured players. On Thursday comes "The Darling of New York" with Baby Peggy, which was postponed last week because of the extended engagement of Buster Keaton's comedy. This is said to be a dramatic crook story which has its setting in the New York Ghetto and was filmed from an original story by King Baggot.

The Majestic has three big productions on its program this week. The first is the Paramount production, "You Can't Fool Your Wife," with Lewis Stone, Leatrice Joy and Nita Naldi in the principal roles. This domestic drama will appear today and Monday and will be succeeded by "The Green Temptation," starring Betty Compson. On Friday comes "Red Lights," a mystery play, with an all-star cast.

Tom Mix appears in "Eyes of the Forest," a thrilling drama of the West, at the Rialto until Wednesday. Charlie Chaplin will be seen in "Pay Day" at that theatre on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

QUILNA PATRONS SEE WORK OF ZANE GREY

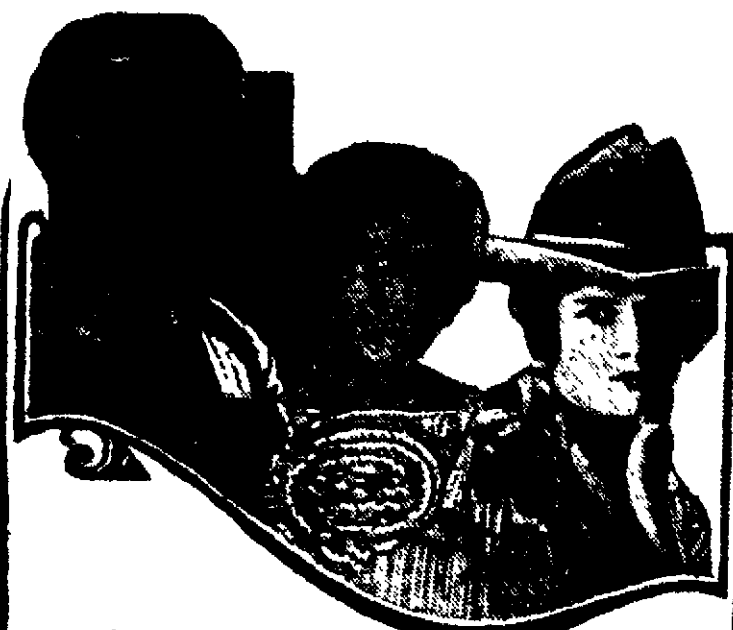

"The Call of the Canyon" To Be Filmed by Baby Peggy Picture

THE schedule at the Quilna for the current week includes Paramount's "The Call of the Canyon" and Baby Peggy in "The Darling of New York." The latter was to have been shown last week but was postponed on account of the huge success of Buster Keaton's new comedy.

"The Call of the Canyon" was written by Zane Grey and a glance at the bookstore windows of the town reveals a liberal display of this most recent work of the distinguished author. It is perhaps the first time that a screen production has preceded the publication in book form of a work of such a noted author, although the story ran as a serial in a popular magazine.

It is a tale of Fifth-av and the Mojave desert, of frivolous New York society and the stern life of the western ranges—a man and a beautiful girl—and the effect which the great open spaces has upon their souls and their love. The contrasting backgrounds of New York Jazz parties and the struggles, feuds and thrills of the Arizona cattle country make this an outstanding picture of any season.

The principal roles are acted by Lois Wilson, Richard Dix and Mar-

ALL STAR CAST SEEN IN MAJESTIC'S SHOW

"You Can't Fool Your Wife" Is Two-Day Attraction Starting Today

ANOTHER all-star cast, which is characteristic of most Paramount pictures, appears in George Melford's production, "You Can't Fool Your Wife," which comes to the Majestic theatre this afternoon for a two day run. Leatrice Joy, Nita Naldi, Lewis Stone and Pauline Garon, all prominent leading screen players, are in the featured roles. The supporting cast includes Paul McAllister, John Daly Murphy, Julia Swayns Gordon and Tom Carrigan.

The story revolves around Garth McBride, who has the fight of his life on the floor of the stock exchange with a certain Russell Fenton. Fenton attempts to murder McBride when the latter ruins him financially, and is arrested and imprisoned. At McBride's request he is pardoned by the governor.

On a pleasure trip to the South, Garth starts a flirtation with one of the guests in his party. His wife resents this and returns to New York to resume nursing, the vocation she had followed before her marriage. How Garth and his wife are reunited after he has been seriously beaten by thugs, furnishes a happy ending for the story.

Betty Compson comes to the Majestic screen for a two day stay. Tuesday in "The Green Temptation," "Red Lights" will be the final offering of the week.

"EYES OF THE FOREST" OPENS RUN AT RIALTO

Tom Mix Thriller Stays Till Wednesday, Then Comes Chaplin Film

"EYES OF THE FOREST," with Tom Mix, opened at the Rialto theatre Saturday and the intrepid, athletic Fox star gave his fans something to talk about. Tom kept his audience almost breathless in a series of thrilling episodes that were unlike anything he has heretofore attempted.

For instance, after an encounter with a band of lumber thieves, Tom rides over a mined road on Tony and is virtually caught in the midst of a blast when the highway is blown up. He escapes and, riding at a break neck clip, he leaps from Tony to an airplane which swoops down from overhead. Numerous other thrills have been injected in to the picture which make it one of this kind in which the popular star has appeared.

The story of "The Eyes of the Forest," written by Shannon Fife is a vivid one, dealing with the Forest Air Rangers of California. Pauline Stark plays the girl in the cast and enacts the role well. Others in the cast are Sid Johnson, the villain, who gives Mix the battle of his life, Ed Wallock, Tom Lougham and Buster Gardner.

"Eyes of the Forest" will be the attraction at the Rialto until Wednesday when it will be replaced by "Pay Day," with Charlie Chaplin and a five reel western drama, "The Lone Horseman."

FORTUNE'S FOOL: BY RAFAEL SABATINI--THRILLING NEW NOVEL FOR READERS OF THE LIMA NEWS

CHAPTER I THE AMOROUS HOSTESS

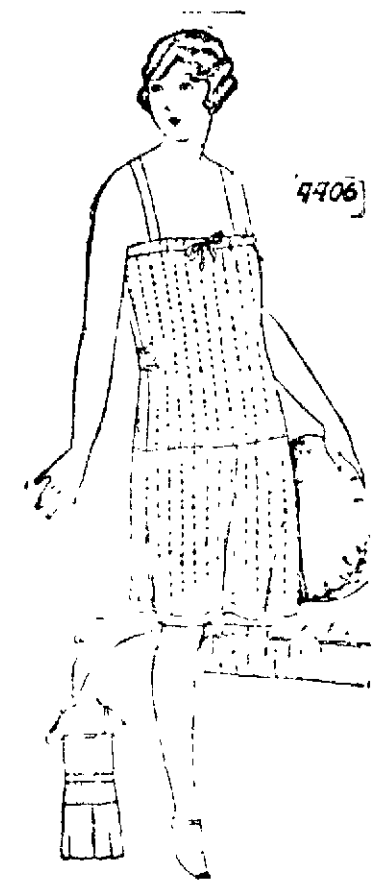

THE times were full of trouble; but Martha Quinn was unperturbed. Hers was a mind that confined itself to the essentials of life; its sustenance and reproduction. Not for her to plague herself with the complexities of existence, with considerations of the hereafter or disputes upon the various creeds by which its happiness may be ensured—a matter upon which men have always been ready to send one another upon exploring voyages thither or yet with the political opinions by which a nation is forever divided. Not even the preparations for war with Holland, which were agitating men so violently, or the plague-fear based upon reports of several cases in the outskirts of the City, could disturb the serenity of her direct existence. The vices of the Court, which afforded such delectable scandal for the Town, touched her more nearly as did the circumstance that yellow bird's-eye hoods were now all the rage with ladies of fashion, and the fact that London was lost in worship of the beauty and talent of Sylvia Farquharson, who was appearing with Mr. Betterton at the Duke's House in the part of Katherine in Lord Orrery's "Henry the Fifth."

Even so, to Martha Quinn, who very competently kept the Paul's Head, in Paul's Yard, these things were but the unimportant trifles that garnish the dish of life. It was upon life's main concerns that she concentrated her attention. In all that regarded meat and drink her learning—as became the hostess of so prosperous a house—was probably unrivaled. Upon these talents was her solid prosperity erected. She possessed, further—as became the mother of six sturdy children of assorted paternity—a discerning eye for a fine figure of a man.

It was to this fact—altho he was very far from suspecting it—that Colonel Holmes owed the good fortune of having lodged in luxury for the past month without ever a reckoning asked or so much as a question on the subject of his means.

Mrs. Quinn had assigned to his exclusive use a cosy little parlor behind the common room. On the windowseat of this little parlor he now lounged, whilst Mrs. Quinn herself—and the day was long—rested in which it had been her need or habit with her own plump hands to perform so menial an office—removed from the table the remains of his very solid breakfast.

Observing him furtively, with a furtiveness, indeed, that was almost habitual to her, Mrs. Quinn pursued her task, moving between table and sideboard, and hesitated to break in upon his abstraction. She was a woman on the short side of middle height, well hipped and deep of bosom, but not excessively. The phrase "plump as a partridge" might have been invented to describe her. In age she cannot have been much short of forty, and whilst not without a certain homely comeliness, in no judgment but her own could she have been accounted beautiful. Very blue of eye and very ruddy of cheek, she looked the embodiment of health; and this rendered her not displeasing. But the discerning would have perceived greed in the full mouth with its long upper lip, and sly cunning—Nature's compensation to low intelligence—in her vivid eyes.

It remains, however, that she was endowed with charms enough of person and fortune to attract Coleman, the bookseller from the corner of Paul's Yard, and Appleby, the mercer from Paternoster Row. She might marry either of them when she pleased. But she did not please. Her regard for essentials rendered the knock-knees of Appleby as repulsive to her as the bow-legs of Coleman. Of late, it is true, the thought of marriage had been engaging her. She realized that the age of adventure touched its end for her, and that the time had come to take a life companion and settle soberly. Fifteen years of good management, prosperity, and thrift at the Paul's Head had made her wealthy. When she pleased she could leave Paul's Yard, acquire a modest demesne in the country, and become one of the ladies of the land, a position for which she felt herself eminently qualified. That which her birth might lack, that in which her birth might have done poor justice to her nature, a husband could supply. Often of late had her cunning blue eyes been narrowed in mental review of this situation. What she required for her purposes was a gentleman born and bred whom fortune had reduced in circumstances and who would, therefore, be modest in the matter of matrimonial ambitions. He must also be a proper man.

Such a man she had found at last in Colonel Holmes. From the moment when a month ago he strode into her inn followed by an urchin shouldering his valise and packages, and delivered himself upon his immediate needs, she had recognized him for the husband she sought, and marked him for her own. At a glance she had appraised him; the tall, soldierly figure, broad to the waist, thence spare to the ground; the handsome face, shaven like a Puritan's, yet set between clusters of gold-brown hair thick as a cavalier's perwig, the long pear-shaped ruby—a relic, no doubt, of more prosperous days—dangling from his right ear; the long sword upon whose pommel his left hand rested with the easy grace of long habit; the assured poise, the air of command, the pleasant, yet authoritative voice. All this she observed with those vivid, narrowing eyes of hers. And she observed, too, the gentleman's discreditably shabby dress: the frayed condition of his long boots, the drooping, faded leather in his Flemish beaver, the well-rubbed leather jerkin, worn, no doubt, to conceal the threadbare state of doublet underneath.

He had business in town, he announced—at Court, he added. It might detain him there some little while. He required lodgings perhaps for a week, perhaps for longer. Could she provide them?

And altho it was now a full month since his arrival and in all that time our gentleman had been lavishly entertained upon the best meat and drink the Paul's Head could offer, yet in all that time there had been—I repeat—neither mention of a reckoning, nor question of his means to satisfy it.

Her housewifely operations being ended at last—after a prolongation which could be carried to no further lengths—she overcame her hesitation to break in upon his thoughts, which must be gloomy, indeed, if his countenance were a proper index.

As she addressed him now, she held in her hand the long pewter vessel from which he had taken his morning draught.

"Is there aught yet lack for comfort, Colonel?"

He stirred, turned his head, to face her, and took the pipe-stem from between his lips.

"Nothing, I thank you," he answered, with a gravity that had been growing upon him in the last fortnight, to overcloud the earlier good-humor of his bearing.

"What—nothing?" The buxom siren's ruddy face was creased in an alluring smile. Aloft now she held the tankard, tilting her still golden head. "Not another draught of October before you go forth?" she coaxed him.

As he looked at her now, he smiled. And it has been left on record by one who knew him well that his smile was irresistible, a smile that could always win him the man or woman upon whom he bestowed it. It had a trick of breaking suddenly upon a face that in repose was wistful, like sunshine breaking suddenly from a gray sky.

"I vow you spoil me," said he.

She beamed upon him. "Isn't that the duty of a proper hostess?"

She set the tankard on the laden tray and bore it out with her. When she brought it back replenished, and placed it on a coffin-stool beside him, he had changed his attitude, but not his mood of thoughtfulness. He roused himself to thank her.

She hovered near until he had taken a pull of brown October.

"Do you go forth this morning?"

"Aye," he answered, but wearily, as if reduced to hopelessness. "They told me I should find his grace returned today. But they have told me the same so often already that off, leaving his doubts implied. "I sometimes wonder if they but made game of me."

"Make game of you!" Horror stressed her voice. "When the Duke is your friend!"

"Ah! But that was long ago. And men change . . . amazingly sometimes." Then he cast off the oppression of his pessimism. "But if there's to be a war, surely there will be commands in which to employ a practiced soldier—especially one who has experience of the enemy, experience gained in the enemy's own service." It was as if he uttered aloud his thoughts.

She frowned at this.

"I marvel now," said she, "that you will be vexing yourself with such matters."

He looked at her. "A man must live," he explained.

"But that's no reason why he should go to the wars and likely die. Hasn't there been enough of that in your life already? At your age a man's mind should be on other things."

"At my age?" He laughed a little. "I am but thirty-five." She betrayed her surprise. "You look more."

"Perhaps I have lived more. I have been very busy."

"Trying to get yourself killed. Don't it occur to you that the time has come to be thinking of something else?"

"That it's time you thought settling, taking a wife and making a home and a family."

"Excellent advice," said he still laughing on a note of derision that obviously was aimed at himself. "Find me a lad who is well endowed and yet so little fastidious in her taste that she could make shift with such a husband as I should afford her, and the thing is done." An Intimate Story of Innermost Emotions Revealed in Private Letters.

LETTER FROM MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT TO HER SON, JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

MY DEAR SON: I have been back from Dr. Knox where you probably know I went while Priscilla Bradford was tearing up my house, preparatory to moving out.

Altho that was two weeks ago, I am feeling physically very much better. I am still rather mixed up in my mind. It is hard to change one's mind, John, when one gets to be as old as I am.

Altho at first I was sure I was not going to like the young woman, whom you had asked to live with me, I am glad that the doctor decided she should come, for I have been pleasantly disappointed. She is most considerate of my prejudices (and I have come to think I have many) and careful, indeed, of my physical ailments.

John, since I have been home I have had much time to think. Perhaps because officious friends have told me of the scandalous gossip that Priscilla Bradford has circulated in the village, I have come to the conclusion that after all the confidence I reposed in her, Priscilla Bradford is not the woman I thought her to be. You see, it seemed to me that a girl with such distinguished ancestry must be truthful and kindly. She was not this, and I know now that she encouraged me in my unreasonable dislike of Leslie.

John, I must confess Priscilla Bradford is a gossip old maid, and I find it strange now that I could have believed in her so trustfully.

From something the young woman who is nursing me said the other day, I am afraid I have lived a long with my dead past. I have adhered too closely to the standard of other days without the understanding now that we have other days we must not only have other manners but other methods, which to exploit our ideas—ye and perhaps other principles.

At the suggestion of Miss Anderson I am asking you to let Leslie and the baby come down and make me a little visit. Miss Anderson has made me see that adopting a baby is a most beautiful thing. She has made me feel not only that I was very narrow and prejudiced but uncharitable to say what I did about this child.

She says that without seeing Leslie she feels she is a lovely woman, and altho I did not tell her of all the things Priscilla Bradford said about her, she seems to have gained an idea that thru jealousy Priscilla if she did not tell outright truths colored every statement which she made about daughter-in-law.

John, I never thought you mother would have to acknowledge to her son that perhaps she has been mistaken. But I am going to do so now, and son, because I am old and ill and lonely, you will look all the things I have said about Leslie and persuade her to come to me and bring the baby.

Lovingly,
YOUR MOTHER

Dollar Increase In Business During
The Year 1924---

AN increase of $250,000.00 in sales over those of 1923 is the goal we are striving for. The closing of our fiscal year just concluded with our inventory justifies the belief that the goal will be reached. We do not boast, but are proud of the gains this store has made in the last few years, particularly the gains achieved during the past year. Considering the modest beginning in 1887, this store has established an enviable record. In all the thirty-seven years we aimed to be worthy of the comment so frequently heard among thrifty buyers, "what you buy at Feldman's is good."

We owe our success and our growth to the good people of this community who have learned to place faith in our merchandising methods. We shall ever guard jealously that confidence won through the earnest efforts accumulated year after year

UNDERWORLD NIGHTS

By ALEXANDER HERMAN
NO. 6—LOYALTY AMONG THIEVES

Not only is there honor among thieves, but there is a loyalty among the members of the Underworld that rivals that of the society above—it does not excel it.

While a gangster himself may neglect his mother, wife, and family, the mob is always ready to help them when in need.

Funds for such relief are raised usually from "slap-downs" and "journalists."

These affairs are directed by the leaders of the mob. They decide to stage a dance at one of the large East Side dance halls.

Then they go around to their friends, small business men, shopkeepers, who seek to curry favor, or try to hold it thru fear, and make them put ads in the journal—the dance under program.

Several thousand dollars are quickly realized in this way. This is augmented by a few shake-downs, and the sale of admission tickets.

The amount of the shake-down depends upon the victim. Usually it is all he can bear.

The price of the admission varies. Usually it is a dollar flat.

But it is beneath the dignity of the big-timers to attend these affairs. Yet their loyalty must remain unquestioned. So they come to the hall, go to the ticket office, slap down their dollars and leave immediately.

Aristocracy is recognized even in the Underworld—the most democratic of our social organizations.

It-times these dances are shot up by rival gangsters. But that rarely spoils the parties. It merely makes them more lively.

And lively they are. For the men and women of the Underworld surely like to step out.

And away they go dancing as collegially as their sisters and brothers up town.

Lousy: A familiar way of addressing one's dancing partner.

Shake-down: Blackmail.

Slap-down: Benefit dance at which big-timers come to pay their admissions and then leave.

Sop: Nitro-glycerin.

Safe Fat Reduction
Reduce, reduce, reduce is the slogan of all fat people. Get thin, be slim, is the cry of fashion and society. And the overfat who, then, hangs in mortification and helplessness, revolting at nauseating drugs, afraid of violent exercise, dreading the unwelcome and unsatisfying diet until they hit upon the harmless Marmola Prescription and learn through it that they may safely reduce steadily and easily without one change in their mode of life, but harmlessly, rapidly and quickly reaching their ideal of figure, with a smoother skin, better appetite and health than they have ever known. And now comes Marmola Prescription Tablets from the same famous harmless formula as the Marmola Prescription. It behooves you to learn the satisfactory beneficial effects of this great, safe, fat reducer by giving to your druggist one dollar for a box of sending a like amount to the Marmola Company, 403 Woodward Avenue, that they mail to you a box of Marmola Prescription Tablets—Ad.

LONDON.
MRS. ERNEST THOMPSON SETON, pretty American, member of exclusive social clubs and wife of the famous naturalist, is on her way to India, "to keep a date with a tiger!"

In fact, her jungle "engagement book" is quite filled, for she has separate "dates" with two tigers.

She proposes to kill one, single-handed, and to capture another alive.

Royal Bengal tigers, however, have social customs of their own. Other pretty ladies, it will be recalled, have kept similar engagements, from which the tiger returned "with the lady inside."

Quite seriously, Mrs. Thompson Seton is undertaking the most dangerous and risky adventure that a big game hunter can face.

She spoke lightly of it when she stopped off here. Reporters cornered her and sought to detain her for a lengthy interview on feminism.

"Excuse me, please," she said with a smile, "but I must be going. I have a little date—with a tiger." Whereupon she left the astonished reporters and hurried off shopping to select her high-powered rifles, cartridges, traps and other equipment.

She is absolutely confident that she will return safe from her hazardous double exploit. Her friends, particularly the superstitious ones, are even more confident. For Mrs. Thompson Seton, apparently, has a charmed life! No less than five times has she barely escaped death in adventures that were almost as dangerous, though not quite, as meeting a tiger single-handed.

One narrow escape might be accident. Two might be coincidence, and three might be "good luck." But when death grazes a woman five times and leaves her unscathed, those who believe in such things as Fate feel they have ample reason for holding the view that destiny is deliberately protecting her.

Five of the experiences which this daughter of California survived were:

ONE—While Mrs. Thompson Seton was traveling in the African desert, a young Bedouin sheik tricked her into leaving the caravan, and then, in a lonely spot, seized her in his arms to carry her away. She says: "I have been a student of the occult. Throwing all my will power into the words, I cried: 'Look at me, look at me!' His eyes struggled with mine. I then willed him to let me go. "loosened, and I knew that I was safe."

TWO—As a girl, traveling in China, she went down the shaft of a soft coal mine, accompanied by an English official and several native workmen. While they were groping through one of the deepest tunnels, a part of the wall and roof caved in, burying two of the natives who stood beside her and missing her only by a hair'sbreadth.

THREE—Mrs. Thompson Seton and her husband, in an Indian canoe, were trying to photograph a huge bull moose swimming in the water. The moose suddenly became enraged and charged at them.
Thompson Seton, who was using the camera, had no time to grasp a rifle.
Just as the moose was about to overturn the canoe, she fired at close range and killed the animal, which weighed more than 1,000 pounds.

FOUR—Doing relief work in Canton, China, during a bloody revolution, she stood at the corner of a street where bullets were flying. Dropping her purse, she stooped to recover it. At that very instant, a bullet clipped the edge of her hat and killed a woman just behind her. Had she not moved at that precise fraction of a second, the bullet would have entered her head.

FIVE—She had been on a big game expedition in the Rocky Mountains. One night the party stopped in a shack and Mrs. Thompson Seton, the only woman in the party, occupied a room to herself, sleeping in a narrow bunk built into the corner. During the night a big puma, or mountain lion, leaped into the room through an open window. The sound awakened her. She lay silently on the cot. Presently the puma came over to her and poked its sniffling nose into her face. Guides said afterward that if she had made the slightest movement, the mountain lion would have killed her. But she managed to keep her presence of mind, and at last the great cat leaped out of the window.

These are some of the reasons why this pretty American woman's friends feel that she really leads a "charmed life."

But she will need all her combined courage, luck and resources for "keeping a date with a tiger" in the wilds of the Indian jungle—whether to trap him or shoot him—probably the most hazardous exploit that a big game hunter can undertake.

The lion is called the "king of beasts."
Its fury and power are terrible when aroused. But compared with a royal Bengal tiger at its worst, the lion may almost be likened to a large St. Bernard dog.

The lion, generally, will let people alone if they let it alone. The mighty roar that echoes through the jungles at night is not a threat of violence or a declaration of war, but a noble warning.
And it kills only for food.

If the lion has to fight it will first roar —this time a battle cry, but a fair one—and will then charge like the knights of old.

The lion, scientifically, is not a direct member of the cat family. It is almost a species to itself.

The tiger, on the other hand, is pure cat, supralative quintessence of giant cat —with all the cruelty, selfishness and deceit of the cat family.

The tiger doesn't "let you alone if you let it alone." It has been known to stalk a native Indian woman, on the outskirts of a village, as a cat stalks a mouse, pounc-ing, dragging, killing and leaping off into the jungle without waiting to devour its prey.

The tiger doesn't roar and charge like the lion. It lurks silently and leaps without warning.

It is these characteristics that make it the most dangerous of all jungle beasts.
When men or women go hunting tigers it is by no means a one-sided game. The tiger loves to kill for the pure joy of killing.

So when Mrs. Thompson Seton enters the jungle to "keep her date with a tiger," the tiger may be eager to accommodate her!

Million-Dollar Brides for Everybody but the Prince!

The Duke and Duchess of York Photographed at Buckingham Palace on Their Wedding Day.

A British Cartoon from "London Opinion" of the Prince as a Wild Westerner.

Why the Hearts and Fortunes Won by Four Buddies of the World's Prize Bachelor Have Convinced His Friends He'll Wed for Love or Not at All.

Late photograph of the Prince of Wales, Taken Just After His Return from Canada, Where He Played Cupid to the Romance of His Kinsman, Prince Eric of Denmark, and Miss Lois Booth, Canadian Heiress.

EACH time a new marriage or engagement involving riches is announced in the British peerage Englishmen exclaim: "Ah, more proof that the Prince of Wales is determined to marry only for love!"

For Edward, the future ruler of the British Empire, the most eligible bachelor in the world, is just now the central figure of an amazing situation. He could marry—undoubtedly—any of the very wealthy and titled young women of England with whom his name has been coupled. He is comparatively poor, yet he has stood by to see his brother and his closest friends marry these lovely heiresses whose combined wealth totals many millions. He has even acted as Cupid in three of the latest matches, bringing the happy couples together.

The latest affair in which he assisted did not involve a member of the peerage, but his friend and kinsman, Prince Eric of Denmark, first cousin to the King of that land, and Miss Lois Booth, beautiful Canadian heiress. Miss Booth, daughter of J. Fred Booth, millionaire lumber king of the North, and holder of a larger dowry, might have been considered a good match for any prince. Her name had been coupled with that of Wales during his recent visit to Canada, when he met her frequently and danced with her.

Yet the gallant Prince put aside any matrimonial intention he might have had when he introduced the lovely little Canadian to his cousin, Prince Eric. The latter, who is Seigneur of Koppeval in his own land, was roughing it in the wilds of the West when Edward of Wales visited his paternal grandfather, who left the family estate plastered with mortgages. It was absolutely necessary for "Burghie" to marry money.

his ranch in Alberta. The two young men were together constantly and it was said Wales did everything possible to foster the romance between the Danish prince and the beautiful Canadian girl. In marrying Miss Booth Prince Eric will automatically renounce his claim to the throne of Denmark.

Before that, the possibility of the Prince's marrying Miss Edwina Ashley, the richest heiress in England, had been seriously discussed. Miss Ashley had inherited about $100,000,000. She was the god-daughter of the late King Edward, and a match between her and the Prince would have had the requisite ingredients—romance, royalty and riches. Yet the Prince stepped gracefully aside and his best pal, Lord Louis Mountbatten, won Lady Edwina.

On several occasions it was said the Prince would marry the brunette beauty, Lady Elizabeth Angela Bowes-Lyon, daughter of the Earl of Strathmore and heir to the famous Glamis Castle and other country estates in Scotland. But in this case, as all the world knows, his brother, "Bertie," Duke of York, ran off with the prize.

And it hasn't been so very long since Lord Burghersh, Earl of Westmorland, another pal of the Prince, married the Hon. Mrs. Arthur Capel, wealthy and beautiful young widow, who is a member of the British nobility. Before these marriages the trio of noble British bachelors helped the Prince of Wales to form a sort of bachelor stronghold. "Bertie," "Burghie" and "Mountie" were with him collectively or separately on almost all the gay parties staged in the heart of London.

Prince Eric of Denmark, Chum and Cousin of the Prince of Wales, Who Will Automatically Renounce His Claim to the Throne of Denmark When He Marries Miss Booth.

As everyone knows, Prince Edward and "Bertie" had left Windsor Castle, their family home, because they chafed under parental discipline. They shared bachelor quarters at York House, St. James Court. Their home was sufficiently modest, considering their exalted social position, but it gave them freedom to come and go as they wished.

The Prince was considerably better off than his handsome brother, who had an income of $50,000 a year before his marriage. This would, of course, be considered splendid for most commoners, but it was not so much for Albert, Duke of York, who had to spend considerable sums on formal entertaining. So it was said that his brother, Edward, often generously helped him out.

At that time it was predicted that Wales would marry soon. The London press was alive with rumors as to which lucky (and wealthy) maid would be honored. But instead it was the Prince's closest friend, Lord Louis Mountbatten, who first deserted the bachelors' stronghold.

Shortly before Mountbatten's marriage he accompanied the Prince on his trip to India. Lord Louis is a bit taller than the Prince, dark, slender, with a keen, eager face. The two lads—they look little more than that now—traveled through India and the Orient, visiting the sumptuous palaces of dark-skinned potentates, sharing the perils of tiger hunts.

At this time the beautiful Edwina Ashley was also in India, the guest of the Viceroy. The latter entertained the Prince and his entourage, and both young men saw the "richest heiress" frequently. No wonder the word went round that Wales was "interested." Didn't he and "Mountie" and Edwina "tennis" together almost every day when the Prince wasn't on parade for the benefit of the foreign population? Yet when all three young people returned to England Miss Edwina became Lady Mountbatten and not the Princess of Wales. And the Prince violated traditions by acting as best man at Lord Louis' wedding.

Then Lady Elizabeth Angela Bowes-Lyon began to be talked of as a possible bride of Great Britain's future king. Why not? said London society. She's beautiful, she's rich, her family is one of the oldest in the land. She's the daughter of the distinguished Earl of Strathmore, the future owner of the famous Glamis Castle, she has known the Prince since they went to children's parties together, she was one of Princess Mary's bridesmaids.

No one, apparently, thought that Lady Elizabeth might marry the Duke of York. He was merely the Prince's little brother; time enough for him to choose a bride after Wales had taken his pick from the field. Society didn't take into consideration that "Bertie" had also gone to the same children's parties as his brother.

When it came to the show-down it was the Prince who retired gracefully to his bachelor "digs," while the Duke of York stepped to the front of the national stage and married charming Lady Elizabeth. When the ceremony was all over and the new Duchess of York saw the interviewers, she raised her aristocratic eyebrows and said smilingly, "And to think, the papers all thought I was going to marry the Prince!"

The next one of the Prince's pals to marry was Lord Burghersh, Earl of Westmorland. "Burghie" is a tall, blond young man with the face of a medieval Saxon knight. He is easy to look at, but it was an open secret that he was desperately poor, owing to the spendthrift habits of wife. In stepping aside for his brother and closest friends to marry millions the "Sporting Prince" has, in the American vernacular, "done himself out of" a number of good matches. Now his latest announcement that he will soon go to Africa indicates still more strongly that he is not heiress hunting, for Africa is decidedly short on wealthy, marriageable young women. Love, and only love, say his intimate friends, will lead Edward of Wales to the altar.

His $50,000-Cottage Wife Says He May Marry the $250,000-Love-Nest Beauty, but She'll Ruin Him First

Miss Corliss Palmer, Titian-Haired Model, in the Pose Which Snared the Heart of Millionaire Brewster.

EUGENE V. BREWSTER, attorney, publisher and artist, is apparently a man of much wealth—and several times as much. Dated a millionaire or better, adored by movie fans who devour his magazines, Mr. Brewster is not leading what you might call a tediously tranquil life.

The worries of Mr. Brewster, who is married, are well known. They sprang from his frankly admitted infatuation for Miss Corliss Palmer, lovely St. Louis model and winner of a beauty prize contest conducted by one of the Brewster publications.

For three years the Brewster troubles have simmered and subsided. But, behold, with the dawn of 1924, they boiled again, fiercer than ever. And all because Mr. Brewster bought the $250,000 Olcott estate, at Morristown, N. J.—the Olcotts!

Incidentally, it should be mentioned that Mr. and Mrs. Brewster do not live together, and have not since Miss Palmer's arrival in the city. The publisher, Mrs. Brewster, who was Miss Eleanor Virginia Olcott, is at the old Brewster home, in Roslyn, Long Island, with her four children, as Virgil.

Mr. Brewster resides at Morristown in the house which he romantically christened "Agapehome" (Abode of Love). Under the same roof resides, too, Miss Palmer. And Miss Palmer's mother, Mrs. J. H. Palmer. And her other daughter, Virginia.

These facts are no novelty to Mrs. Brewster. But when someone told her that the Olcott place had been bought—she opened her eyes, and delivered a few remarks. "All right," she snapped, "let him buy what he wants. Let him move out of the country. Let him get a divorce from me. I'll let him—at last! But it will cost him EVERY CENT he has, and that means quite a lot of money."

No woman has ever been through such a mental stress, such spiritual agony, as I have. And I intend to see that I get some recompense."

She does at present a thing as real estate shuffler in the game of divorce. But all along, as acquaintances point out, Eugene V. Brewster's love career has been paralleled by the size and cost of his New York and New Jersey residences.

In 1916, he married the present Mrs.

They had one servant. They lived simply. For "incidental," Mrs. Brewster received weekly, she says, $75. As Brewster's business expanded—he was a pioneer in the movie-monthly field—his income permitted of a more imposing resi-

This was a kind of informal studio, where the owner could put himself up over night if he was kept late at work, and where in the daytime he interviewed models anxious to pose for his colored plates.

One reason for buying the Roslyn house, as Mr. Brewster pointed out to his wife, was the fact that he could utilize part of it as a studio. Young women might have to come there for photographic tests. It would be much more convenient than Brooklyn.

In 1920 Miss Palmer arrived on the scene. Victorious in the contest conducted to decide the "queen of beauty" by one of the Brewster magazines, she visited the Roslyn residence for conferences with the publisher about her career.

He acknowledged his en-and moved there. Miss Palmer moved there, too. So did Corliss' mother and sister.

While he vainly tried to persuade Mrs. Brewster to sanction a divorce, Brewster altered and improved "Agapehome" to the tune of $25,000. Artistically disposed, he "personally supervised" the reconstruction of the handsome house, which had cost originally $50,000.

Italian gardens were sunk into the greenward; shrubs were profusely planted, and the aspect of the landscape was picturesquely altered. In the meantime, the strangely assorted quartet lived beneath the same roof. Mrs. Palmer acted as chaperone to the middle-aged publisher and her daughter. They all occupied separate apartments.

"Agapehome's" owner insisted, he said, on "not violating any of the proprieties."

Mrs. Brewster, all this time, had been far from inactive. An affidavit on a motion for alimony, filed by her attorneys in the Supreme Court, Kings County, disclosed her attitude unmistakably.

Among other statements which she made were the following: That she wanted a separation on their home "he would compel deponent to live in a very different and much less expensive style than she had been accustomed";

That he threatened her that if she should refuse to comply with this wish "he was able to make it appear that he did not own anything more than the coat upon his back";

Mrs. Brewster also cited a letter which she said her husband had written her in which the phrase, "I shall always do my utmost to make you comfortable," occurred.

For answer, Mrs. Brewster points triumphantly to the sale of the Dudley Olcott place. This marks the last—or at least, latest—point of gorgeousness in Eugene V. Brewster's heart and real estate career. The grounds cover fifteen acres. They are laid out in symmetrical patterns which would delight the soul of a Renaissance monarch. There are exotic plants, pools and fountains, curving drives and sheltered nooks, everything that heart could crave.

Mr. Brewster, who "stopped having birthdays at thirty-four," remains outwardly calm in the face of his wife's announcement that divorce will cost him "every cent." Miss Palmer, though smiling prettily, is mute. Mrs. Palmer has "nothing to say" about the new palace

That Brewster once spent $18,000 a year in maintaining their home, but that he had cut that amount to $6,000;

That he demanded that she pay all the Roslyn bills, including coal, out of her allowance, and dismiss the baby's nurse;

That he once told her that unless she permitted him to entertain Miss Palmer in which her daughter plans to enter very soon.

Apparently everyone is waiting for someone else to make the first move. But those who have followed the case from the start are wondering—not without a chuckle—whether a man who can buy a $250,000 estate can prove that he owns nothing more than his coat, and whether, in order to prove this, Millionaire Brewster would be willing to go back to a six-room flat and one servant, even with "the most wonderful girl in the world."

SCOUTS PLANNING BUDGET DRIVE

Annual Financial Campaign To Be Held Feb. 12 and 13

Lima Council of Boy Scouts will observe national boy scout week Feb. 8 to 14, by inaugurating the annual financial drive Feb. 12 and 13 for the yearly budget.

Plans for a membership campaign and enrollment of leadership for troops as well as a reserve corps of leaders are now in planning during the week.

Increased activities in the scout work in Lima is being planned in preparation for observation of national boy scout week. All action for affairs which the council has been conducting in two troops from Waterbury, and they will send delegates to the state night to the court of honor.

Membership in the Boy Scouts has grown to 1,200 in the past year. There are 250 troops organized and equipped in the district, and a total of 1,000 boys at one time with trained leadership. In addition there are more than thousands of single campers.

A bulletin was issued from the headquarters on Saturday offering three prizes for the three best essays of three hundred words written by boy scouts on the subject, "Why I Am a Scout." The enrollment of all schools has been secured so that scouts may secure help from their teachers in their composition.

It was announced there will be three impartial judges and the essays will be judged for composition and neatness.

Essays must be written on one side of the paper, unsigned and delivered in person to headquarters no later than 5 p. m. at the headquarters. The committee will be taken and numbered and this number given to his essay. The judges will not know whose essay they are judging.

The three prize winning essays will be published as follows: first prize essay Feb. 10, second prize Feb. 11, third prize Feb. 12. The names of the prize winners will be announced Feb. 13 and prizes awarded Feb. 14. The first prize is a five dollar gold prize, second prize three dollars in silver and the third prize one dollar in silver.

Letters were mailed to every registered scout on Saturday so that all will have been notified at least twice.

AUTUMN OF LIFE MOST DANGEROUS

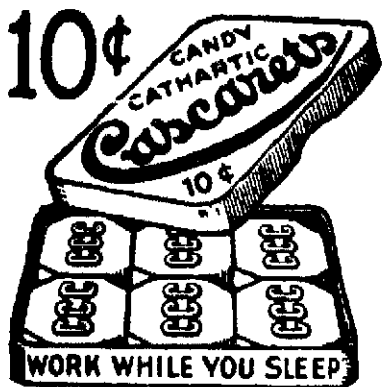

That more mistakes are made in the autumn of life than in the adolescent age is the opinion of Judge Fred C. Becker based on his experience as an arbiter in divorce action tried in common pleas court.

"The adolescent age has always been held up as the dangerous age," declared Judge Becker. "But it seems to me that the age between 40 and 50 is more hazardous for marital happiness."

It is between these ages Judge Becker finds that many couples become dissatisfied, and restless. Quarrels ensue, and the parties bring their troubles to court for settlement.

RELICS FIND WAY INTO MUSEUM

Allen-co Historical Society Gets Two Donations

An old wooden clock and a hickory limb of historical worth are two valuable additions made to the Allen-co Historical Society last week, the gifts of Jessie J. Poage, 842 N. Main st., who at present is wintering in Florida.

The clock was the 23rd wooden works clock made by Silas Hoadly who had the renowned Seth Thomas in his employ at the time it was constructed. After faithfully serving time for many generations the clock was brought to what is now Allen-co in 1912. Poage got possession of it some time ago.

The hickory limb was a part of a tree which stood between the Confederate and Union armies in the battle of Missionary Ridge, near Chattanooga, Tenn., Nov. 23, 24 and 25, 1863. The battle was won by the Northern troops. The tree verified the efforts of the battle and was found still alive years later it was cut and brought to Lima by a native of Ohio.

Imbedded in the limb are pieces of shrapnel, shot and lead, some of which was identified by Mrs. Beale Seymour, curator of the society, as belonging to Northern guns and others as that of Confederate guns.

CHURCH COUNCIL HOLDS MONTHLY MEETING MONDAY

At 6 p. m. a fellowship luncheon will be held in the cafeteria. Dr. Ross Parrish, president of the Putnam-co Council of Churches will be present. He will give a ten-minute talk about the success of the sectional conferences held recently in Putnam-co. Rev. T. W. Hoernemann will speak on "How To Present the Gospel to Meet the Needs of Men Today." Music will be furnished by the Y. M. C. A. girls.

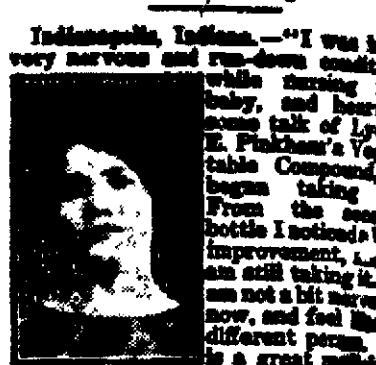

AUCTION OF 122 ACRES OBJECT OF COURT SUIT

An order to sell at auction 122 acres of land adjoining Westminster, is sought in common pleas court in a foreclosure suit instituted Saturday by Thomas W. Rees against Dot L. and L. C. Kline of Kansas City. The action is the culmination of a number of suits brought against Kline, who purchased the farm about the time of the World War, but was unable to make the venture profitable.

Rees claims to hold notes secured by a mortgage on the farm, for $10,000.

NERVOUS, RUN-DOWN MOTHER

Warn Out Caring for Children a Nightmare—See how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helps

Indians, Indiana.—"I was a very nervous and run-down mother while nursing a baby, and having some talk of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, began taking from the same bottle I noticed a great improvement, and am still taking it. I am not a bit nervous now, and feel like a different person. It is a great medicine for any one in a nervous, run-down condition and I would be glad to give you one advice about taking it. I can tell you per se to publish this letter."—Mrs. Anna Smith, 541 W. North Street, Indianapolis, Indiana.

The important thing about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is that it does help women suffering from ailments common to their sex.

If you are nervous and run-down, have pains in your lower parts and your back, remember that the Vegetable Compound has relieved other women having the same symptoms. For a by druggists everywhere.

A Story of Success

How Studebaker Cars became leaders

145,000 people last year paid $200,000,000 for them

THE most talked-about cars among fine cars are the Studebaker Sixes—at $975 and up.

Sales have almost trebled in the past three years. The demand for these cars, growing by leaps and bounds, has been Motordom's chief sensation.

Over $200,000,000 was last year spent for Studebaker models.

Now we wish to explain, to all who are interested, the reasons for that success.

Studebaker has always led

For 72 years the name Studebaker has stood for quality and class.

Studebaker equipages, in the carriage days, held premier place. The White House owned them in the days of Grant and Harrison.

Now we make motor cars only. But the Studebaker name, in this modern field, simply had to maintain its prestige.

We had the money, we had the incentive — we who now control. And our one ambition has been to maintain the Studebaker place.

Studebaker assets are $90,000,000. We have $50,000,000 in modern plants and equipment.

Not old plants re-adapted. We have spent $32,000,000 in new plants in five years. We have equipped them with 12,500 up-to-date machines.

Over $8,000,000 was spent on drop forge plants alone. Another $10,000,000 on body plants, to maintain our prestige in coach building.

We believe that no other plant in the country is so well equipped to Learn why 145,162 bought Studebakers in 1923

In 1919, the public paid over $80,000,000 for 39,356 Studebaker cars.

In 1920, the public paid over $100,000,000 for 51,474 Studebaker cars, an increase of 31% over 1919.

In 1921, the public paid over $120,000,000 for 66,643 Studebaker cars, an increase of 29% over 1920.

In 1922, the public paid over $155,000,000 for 110,269 Studebaker cars, an increase of 66% over 1921.

In 1923, the public paid over $201,000,000 for 145,162 Studebaker cars, an increase of 32% over 1922.

In 1924, business has opened with Studebaker as never before.

MONCRIEF FURNACES
(Lima Branch)
Special early spring terms to install your furnace now.
Know you not, that the Moncrief is a dependable furnace, when installed by our own factory methods, through our local branch?
Think of it! Over 100 satisfied customers from last year alone, and among them some of the largest warm air heating systems in Lima. Results? Far beyond their expectations. Our customers have learned, what it means to have a MONCRIEF in their homes during the past cold weather. Dozens of testimonials have already arrived at our office.
High grade workmanship and reasonable prices, are what the good people of Lima demand, and that's what they are entitled to and receive, when buying a "Moncrief."
So don't lay awake nights worrying about your heating problems. Call the HENRY FURNACE & FOUNDRY CO. and say "We want you to send out a competent man to help us plan a good heating system."
Many new homes will be built, and re-modelled this year.
Get your orders in early.
Ground will be broken and a large additional warehouse will be built to take care of our ever increasing business.
We wish to thank all our present and past customers, whose good will and appreciation, have helped to put the MONCRIEF in the front rank in Lima.
If you are going to buy, build or remodel, call us at once.

STOCKS RISE ONE TO FIVE POINTS

Trading Featured By Strength of Low Priced Stocks

STEEL ISSUES HOLD FIRM

Material Gains in Specialties Are Registered

NEW YORK—(Associated Press)—Intermittent profit-taking failed to check a resumption of the upward movement in Saturday's stock market, which was featured by the impressive strength of the low priced railroad shares. Dividend paying rails, however, failed to share in the advance. St. Louis Southwestern common and preferred advanced approximately 5 and 3 points respectively, and Wabash preferred A moved up 2 3/8 while Texas and Pacific, Western Pacific preferred, Seaboard Air-Line preferred, Wabash common and the Pere Marquette issues advanced a point or so. Buying of this group was based on improved earnings of speculative expectation of a resumption of dividends next month by the Southern railway. Wabash and St. Louis Southwestern companies.

Steel held relatively firm on reports of steadily increasing operations and higher pig iron prices. U. S. Steel closed fractionally higher at 104 3/4 and moderate activity was noted in Crucible, Bethlehem, Penn. and Gulf States. Steel companies are expected to benefit from the improvement of the oil industry which is expected to materially increase its demands for pipe and oil drilling machinery.

PROBE AFFECTS OILS

Another advance in the price of Mid Continent crude was offset by the latest disclosure in the oil industry inquiry at Washington which brokers report has had a restraining effect on the trading in oil shares. Standard Oil of Calif. and Pacific Oil, which were heavy Friday, made good recoveries Saturday. Royal Pacific jumped more than 3 points and Steel Transport 2.

Specialties recorded best gains in the industrial group. Hayes, Wheel Woolworth, Savage Arms and Otis elevator advanced 1 3/4 to 5 1/4 at new high levels for the year. Tobacco yielded readily to profit-taking. Schulte 1 1/2 and a number of others, including fractionally. Wilson packing dropped about 2 1/2 points on the announcement of a new stock issue and United Fruit broke 3 1/4 on the sale. Pan American issues held relatively steady. Sterling exchanged moved up about 1 1/2 in early trading and then fell back to around 44 3/8, last night's close. Other exchanges showed only nominal changes.

IN FEES OF RECORDER

Receipts of County Recorder Glen L. Wallace's office for December and January show a marked increase in the amount of business over the same months one year ago, a report issued Saturday disclosed. Fees paid into the recorder's office in December amounted to $1,058.46, as against $677.53 for the same month in 1922. January fees for this year were $776.23, against $744.88 for last year. Gain for the two months is $440.45.

The recorder's office is considered one of the most important in the court house, and is at the same time self-supporting.

The increased revenue of more than $220 a month is being handled without increasing the office personnel.

MARSHALL FIELD REVIEW

Marshall Field & Co. in their weekly review of the wholesale dry goods trade

Current wholesale distribution of goods was considerably in excess of last week's volume, but showed a slight decrease over the corresponding week a year ago.

Road sales were somewhat less than a year ago and did not reach the total for the same period there. The fewer customers in market than last year was the same as for the same week in 1922.

Prices were about the same as for the corresponding period.

PRODUCE REVIEW

(By Swift & Co.)

The market for produce was quiet and the changing weather conditions and the varying supply and demand quotations the latter part of the week were as low as 25 cents, but as quotations indicate a better condition and are generally low of storage eggs at Chicago, New York, Boston and Philadelphia, reported by the U. S. Department of Agriculture January 31, were: 1921—100 cases, 1922—144,000 cases; 1923—100 cases.

The butter market has shown a much better condition in all the large centers; the make is generally reaping and from now on there will be a gradual accumulation of supplies. Arrivals of live and dressed poultry have been ample for current use; markets are closing easy, with the tendency of many of the young roosters are now being classed as stage and will at lower prices than have been ruling heretofore.

ACTUAL BANK STATEMENT

NEW YORK—The actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week shows an excess in reserve of $20,920,920. This is an increase of $19,735,640.
